Chicago Gangs One Up with Police in Contest

BATTLE FOR SUPREMACY OF LAKE CITY

GUNMEN ATTACK POLICE SQUAD CAR ON BUSY STATE STREET

EXCHANGE SHOTS, ONE INNOCENT BYSTANDER KILLED, ONE WOUNDED

Chicago, July 2.—(U.P.)—Gangland was one up today in its battle with police for supremacy in the city of Chicago.

Choosing the world's best lighted thoroughfare, State Street, as their battle ground, gunmen late last night attacked a police squad car in which a notorious gangster leader was being escorted across the loop.

They exchanged volleys of shots with the officers, threw hundreds of passers-by into a panic, killed one innocent bystander and wounded another, and escaped through a dense smoke screen fired from the exhaust of their auto.

Jack Zuta, notorious member of the Moran-Alleo north side gang, apparently was the target of the two men who started the gun battle.

Zuta and three companions, one of them a girl, had just been released on bonds after being held for 24 hours for questioning in the case of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter who was murdered in a subway three weeks ago last Monday.

Zuta, Solly Vision, Albert Bratz and Leona Bernstein, all arrested in a raid on Moran gang headquarters, were released from jail early last night. They obtained their release under bonds through a court order that they could not be held longer than 24 hours without booking.

As they started to leave the detective bureau, Zuta asked for a police escort across the loop, explaining that once he and his companions reached their own north side they would be safe, but that he feared he never could get across the loop alive if they went alone.

Lieut. George Barker offered to act as escort and the four got into his sedan, Vision sitting beside Barker, while Zuta huddled between Bratz and the girl in the rear seat.

As the car rolled along State Street at about 15 miles an hour, a dark blue sedan swung from behind, drew alongside and a tall man stepped to the running board, drew a pistol from a shoulder holster and began firing. Seven bullets imbedded themselves in Barker's car before he could stop it, jump to the street, draw his gun and begin returning the gangster's fire. Another man leaped from the side of the gangster car and joined in the battle.

The gunmen stopped also and several volleys of shots were exchanged at close range. Elbert Lusader, 38, a street car motorman, stood at the controls of his car, stalled by the Barker machine which was on the tracks. A bullet from the tall gangster's gun pierced his neck and he fell, mortally wounded, dying today in St. Luke's hospital.

Another bullet hit Olaf Svenste, 69, a watchman who was hurrying to his work in a nearby skyscraper. It ripped through the muscles of his left arm.

His gun emptied, Lieut. Barker jumped back into his car, from which Zuta and his companions mysteriously had disappeared during the fight. Barker started in pursuit of the gangsters, who were speeding down State Street toward the north side.

At Madison and State, one of the world's busiest corners, a dense cloud of smoke shot from the exhaust of the gangster's auto, or from a bomb thrown into the street by them. It covered the street from curb to curb, but Barker kept on and did not lose sight of the fleeing auto until his own car ran out of gas a few blocks beyond and he was forced to stop. Other police, riding commandeered autos, had joined in the chase and continued the exchange of fire, but all were outdistanced after the smoke screen was passed.

What the results were, if any, of the 24 hours' questioning of Zuta and his companions in connection with the Lingle murder, police were not prepared to state today. Zuta, like Frank Foster who is under arrest in California, never has been suspected of being the actual slayer of the reporter, but police and members of the special board of strategy investigating the subway murder believed both men might give information of value.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, who heads the board of strategy, said today that he would ask indictment of Foster on a murder charge if Foster did not agree to answer in detail questions asked of him.

Foster, who, police say, originally owned the gun with which Lingle was slain, was arrested with five companions in Los Angeles early yesterday as the gangsters were preparing to leave for Mexico. Shortly after the Lingle murder, Foster left here after allegedly telling a friend that "the city was getting too hot" for him.

GAME WARDEN BLASTS 3 BEAVER DAMS TO FIND BODY

Mellen, Wis., July 2.—(U.P.)—Game Warden John Long said today that he had blasted three beaver dams in Mud lake, near here, in an effort to find the body of Benjamin Marquardt, 35, Marengo farmer, believed drowned. Long's action came after Sheriff Elmer Sanders abandoned a search because he believed Marquardt had not drowned in the lake. Marquardt was said to be a former baseball player on the St. Paul team of the American association.

AMERICAN BAR IN SECRET POLL ON PROHIBITION

TO FIND ATTITUDE OF LAWYERS ON REPEALING THE 18TH AMENDMENT

DECISION FOR POLL MADE AFTER 12 YEARS' ALOOFNESS ON QUESTION

New York, July 2.—(U.P.)—The American Bar Association will begin a secret poll in two weeks among its 30,000 lawyer members throughout the country to determine their attitude toward repeal of the 18th amendment.

The decision to undertake the poll was made after twelve years of aloofness from the prohibition controversy. The executive committee of the association said it could no longer resist pressure from within the membership ranks for an expression of opinion on the subject.

For some time one wing of the association, called the voluntary committee of lawyers, has been urging the association to go on record either for or against the amendment.

The executive committee prevented a direct vote or referendum on the plea prohibition was a controversial and political subject and that only a relatively small number of members were on hand to vote.

For that reason it has been decided, in conducting the coming poll, to allow the members as a whole to say whether the vote should be made public. The ballots will be sent out July 15, along with bills for annual membership dues.

Chicago, July 2.—(U.P.)—The Hunter brothers exhibited a growing interest in "coming down" in notes dropped from the City of Chicago this afternoon, but no move toward ending the refueling endurance flight had been made at 3:40 P. M. CDT, when the ship ended its 504th hour in the air.

FARMER AND WIFE KILLED IN CAR, BUS COLLISION

Candy, Minn., July 2.—(U.P.)—Injuries received when their automobile ran into a Minneapolis-Watertown bus proved fatal today to Henry Jensen, farmer, and his wife.

Seven passengers in the bus were slightly injured but none was taken to the hospital here. Witnesses said the farmer apparently did not see the bus and rode onto the highway near here from a side road. Clarence Olson, bus driver, they said, swerved the bus in a wide circle but could not avoid striking the farmer's car, which crashed into the ditch. Jensen and his wife were pinned under the wreckage.

Jensen was dead when he arrived at the hospital while his wife died three hours after arriving at the Swenson Memorial hospital early today.

St. Paul, July 2.—(U.P.)—Raids on the first day that prohibition enforcement was taken over by the department of justice will bring 21 persons before United States Commissioner W. T. Goddard today.

M. L. Harney, new prohibition director, said the raids were the first of a "pre-Fourth of July" clean-up. All the persons arrested were booked on charges of violating the liquor laws.

PRISON-MADE PRODUCTS SALES TO BE HAMPERED

ENACTMENT OF SUCH LAWS MAY FOLLOW HAWES-COOPER BILL PROMULGATION

TO CAUSE STATE TO REORGANIZE THEIR WHOLE PRISON SYSTEMS

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 2.—(U.P.)—Enactment of laws prohibiting the sale of prison-made products, "an inevitable result of the Hawes-Cooper bill," will cause states to take immediate steps toward reorganization of their prison systems, according to Gov. Henry S. Caulfield, of Missouri.

The executive of the state which harbors one of the largest penal institutions of the country, addressed the 22nd annual national conference of governors today, paving the way to a general discussion of a problem that has given many governors perplexed moments when they attempted to define what they would use as a substitute for work to keep their prisoners occupied.

The Hawes-Cooper bill provides that prison-made goods will be subject to the "operando and effect of the laws of the state" into which they are transported, to the same extent as though they had been made in the state, and "shall not be exempt therefrom by reason of being introduced in the original package."

The law, in the opinion of most governors, will necessitate the exclusion of prison-made goods for the protection of citizen merchants.

With the exclusion of prison articles, employment for thousands of convicts will end, prison manufacturing plants, mines and farms will to a large extent be closed, and many states will face the problem of handling unoccupied prisoners, unless a reorganization is promulgated, Governor Caulfield declared.

"It is universally recognized," he said, "that prisoners must be furnished with useful and profitable employment, the purposes being to train the prisoner to be self-supporting upon his release, to protect his mental and physical health, and to lighten the burden cast by his wrong-doing upon honest folks who must pay the taxes to support him."

"Systems of occupation for prisoners have been designated as the contract system, whereby the convicts are hired out on a per diem basis to private contractors; the public account system, whereby the state itself conducts its own industries, employing its convicts therein; the public works system, whereby the state uses its prisoners in building roads and other public works; and the state-use system, under which the state uses its convict labor solely to supply the needs of the state and of its political subdivisions."

The public account system, the most popular of the four, is the one most seriously affected by the bill, he declared. Sixty-five per cent of the cost of operating the Missouri institution is paid out of the earnings of prison industries.

Governor Caulfield suggested that all states should investigate, study the possibilities within the state and make a survey of the potential market among state departments and institutions before any change in the prison organization is undertaken.

He said that the outlook was not entirely hopeless, even though several governors were extremely gloomy concerning the future industries which must be reorganized and re-equipped to conform to the new field, he concluded.

CONGRESS GOES BEYOND ESTIMATES OF THE ENGINEERS

PRESENT MEASURE IS THE BIGGEST IN THE HISTORY OF THE COUNTRY

TOTAL COST MAY RUN FROM $120,000,000 TO $340,000,000

By THOMAS L. STOKES (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, July 2.—The rivers and harbors bill, awaiting President Hoover's signature, constitutes a departure from a policy established 20 years ago, after a bitter congressional fight, which was designed to eliminate "pork" from such measures.

Congress at that time adopted the policy that proposed river and harbor projects must first be approved by the board of army engineers in the war department before being included in legislation.

In framing the present bill, congress went beyond the engineers in many instances. The present bill is the largest in the country's history. Estimates of its total cost vary from $120,000,000 to $340,000,000.

Congress changed its policy 25 years ago after a bitter fight, led by the late Senator Burton of Ohio, who filibustered a rivers and harbors bill all night, walking about in his carpet slippers as he spoke. This dramatic battle ended the old system whereby congressmen, by "log-rolling," voted millions of government money for local bridges and other projects, some of little use except to help the particular member in his campaign for reelection.

During the senate debate on the present measure, Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, declared congress had over-ridden the army engineers "to the tune of millions of dollars."

While there are some items in the bill not approved by the engineers, the measure carries out in some of its major provisions a large portion of President Hoover's inland waterway program whereby the vast system of the middle west will be joined with the Great Lakes and the Atlantic ocean.

Two of the most important provisions authorize the federal government to take over the Erie and Oswego canals in New York state and the Illinois waterway. The New York canals will be operated as barge canals only, the bill declaring the government's policy to be construction of a ship route from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic through the St. Lawrence.

An appropriation of $7,500,000 for completing the Illinois waterway is authorized by the bill. This will connect the Mississippi barge system with the Great Lakes.

Diversion of water from Lake Michigan for floating commerce in the waterway will be limited to the figures fixed by the supreme court, or a maximum of 1,500 cubic feet a second after 1938.

Other large projects in the bill include $15,000,000 for a six-foot channel on the upper Mississippi from Kansas City to Sioux City and $7,500,000 for a nine-foot channel on the upper Mississippi from the mouth of the Illinois river to Minneapolis and St. Paul.

House leaders today pondered over the reception they should accord the Portean world war veterans' pension bill which the senate returned late yesterday with far-reaching amendments.

The revised measure, passed by the house after President Hoover had vetoed a previous bill carrying high rates, was amended in the senate to provide rates ranging from $10 to $60 rather than the $12 to $40 house scale. The senate, moreover, inserted the "vicious habits" clause to which Mr. Hoover strongly objected when vetoing the original measure.

The split between the house and senate, threatening to delay adjournment was widened still further by disputes over the Wickersham law enforcement commission's appropriation in the second deficiency bill and over the District of Columbia's appropriation bill.

In the first instance, house leaders are seeking to substitute $250,000 for the $500,000 provided by the senate for the law enforcement commission. In the second, the senate is asking for an appropriation of $12,000,000 for the District while the house is holding out for $9,000,000.

A retired army engineer whose name has been connected in the public mind for several years with Mississippi flood control, Major Gen. Edgar A. Jadwin, was named by President Hoover late yesterday as head of the reorganized, administration-sponsored federal power commission.

The power chairman, who with four other $10,000 a year commissioners to be named soon will control development of the nation's power resources, brings to his new job years of experience as chief of the board of army engineers for rivers and harbors.

In his late position, from which he was retired last year, Jadwin reviewed and passed upon thousands of rivers and harbors projects. These ranged in extent and cost from the vast and highly complicated system of Mississippi flood control to minor schemes for bridging creeks and dredging small canals.

Chicago, July 2.—The "City of Chicago," its refueling endurance flight nearing the original goal of 500 hours, flew steadily above Sky Harbor airport today, defying the laws of gravitation despite an accumulation of indications that the time when it must come down is drawing nearer.

The flying Hunter brothers, Kenneth and John, ended 504 hours of flight at 3:40 P. M. CDT today, increasing their bonuses to approximately $8,000.

The Hunters ran into new difficulties when the "Big Ben," the refueling monoplane, was unable to leave the ground on time for its first contact today.

The contact was delayed because of motor trouble with the refueler. Spark plugs had to be changed before the ship could go up.

Seventy-five gallons of gasoline, the normal requirement, was transferred when the refueler finally made contact. At least three such transfers are necessary daily.

The delay was of enough concern to cause a warning to Wayne, Mich., where a second refueler is available, to have it ready to fly to Sky Harbor on an instant's notice.

The Hunters themselves were in disagreement over how much longer they should keep the "City of Chicago" in the air.

A note dropped this morning said Kenneth was in favor of coming down soon, but that John believed the ship was good for an indefinite period.

All indications are that the Hunters will come down as quickly as any serious trouble developed for fear of endangering the record they already have set.

The "City of Chicago" would not be credited with a new record unless it descended at Sky Harbor, where it took off at 4:30 P. M., CDT, June 11.

The ground crews and National Aeronautical Association officials have agreed that no risks should be permitted to endanger the mark already reached. This is one reason for the numerous notes exchanged between the plane and the ground. Most of them are only precautionary.

The record plane, it was said, has shown no serious signs of strain, but wear and tear is having its effect.

Ground observers reported the motor sounded as good as could be expected

Chicago, July 2.—Motor trouble threatened today to end the record flight of the endurance airplane City of Chicago before Pilots John and Kenneth Hunter realize their ambition of celebrating the Fourth of July by throwing freerackers out of the plane.

The morning refueling was successfully carried out despite difficulty with the motor of the refueling plane which delayed its ascension.

"The piston rings are badly worn and the old crate is pumping oil in every cylinder," said Walter Hunter, who, with Albert, another brother, handles the refueling plane, Big Ben. "But it's a wonder the plane isn't shaken to pieces from three weeks of that grind."

Members of the ground crews kept secret many of the notes which John and Kenneth dropped to the field, but admitted the pilots had reported considerable motor trouble. Sister Irene, who supervises the cooking of her brother's meals, and Mrs. Ida Hunter, their mother, were worried as they watched John and Kenneth creep out on the narrow, wind-swept cat-walk to adjust the motor or tighten wires in the fuselage.

"We're making it fine," read one of the notes dropped from the plane. "Send us up a supply of freerackers. We want to throw 'em out on the field Friday."

Chicago, July 2.—The Hunter brothers now are being paid at the rate of $1,601,600 a year for keeping the "City of Chicago" in the air.

Their current earnings were increased today from the $100 an hour that has been paid them by an oil company since they broke the endurance record last Sunday to $160 an hour.

The $1-a-minute increase came from Blue Ribbon Malt Co. and prompted Al Hunter, one of the brothers attending to the refueling end of the job, to say: "It may be a long time. I don't know how John and Kenneth will feel about it up there, but when they figure out that total salary they may decide to stay in the air until their beards get tangled in the controls—and Walt and I'll be glad to help them."

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 2.—(U.P.)—Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three flying companions of the airplane Southern Cross left here for the west today to complete the final lap of an around-the-world flight.

The fliers took off at 8:05 A. M. EDT for Chicago, the first stop of a trip which will end at Oakland, Calif., where the Southern Cross left two years ago on its trail-blazing journey across the Pacific ocean.

The Southern Cross is expected to land at Curtiss Wright-Reynolds field in Chicago. From there the fliers will be taken to the Blackstone hotel, where they will broadcast over the radio.

From Chicago they expect to fly to Salt Lake City, probably passing over Aurora, Iowa City, Des Moines, Omaha and Cheyenne. From Salt Lake City to Oakland the route includes Elko, Reno and Sacramento.

Major Kingsford-Smith met Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh for the first time yesterday, when the colonel went to his hotel.

Congratulations were exchanged on the celebrated flights of both men, and also on such personal matters as the Lindbergh baby and Major Kingsford-Smith's coming marriage. Lindbergh told the Australian that he considered the flight from Oakland to Australia across the Pacific "the greatest flight ever made."

Kingsford-Smith replied, "Oh, but I had four men and three motors on that flight. You flew alone and had only one engine."

The major thinks Lindbergh is "a hell of a swell guy," he told reporters later.

Their current earnings were increased today from the $100 an hour that has been paid them by an oil company since they broke the endurance record last Sunday to $160 an hour.

The $1-a-minute increase came from Blue Ribbon Malt Co. and prompted Al Hunter, one of the brothers attending to the refueling end of the job, to say:

"It may be a long time. I don't know how John and Kenneth will feel about it up there, but when they figure out that total salary they may decide to stay in the air until their beards get tangled in the controls—and Walt and I'll be glad to help them."

KINGSFORD-SMITH
AND AIDES LEAVE
FOR WEST COASTFLIERS TAKE OFF FROM ROOSE-VELT FIELD, NEW YORK,
FOR CHICAGOOBJECTIVE IS OAKLAND, CALIF.,
WHICH SOUTHERN CROSS

Chicago, July 2.—(U.P.)—The globe-circling monoplane Southern Cross reached Chicago this afternoon and flew northward to Sky Harbor airport to salute the City of Chicago refueling endurance flight plane.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 2.—(U.P.)—Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three flying companions of the airplane Southern Cross left here for the west today to complete the final lap of an around-the-world flight.

The fliers took off at 8:05 A. M. EDT for Chicago, the first stop of a trip which will end at Oakland, Calif., where the Southern Cross left two years ago on its trail-blazing journey across the Pacific ocean.

The Southern Cross is expected to land at Curtiss Wright-Reynolds field in Chicago. From there the fliers will be taken to the Blackstone hotel, where they will broadcast over the radio.

From Chicago they expect to fly to Salt Lake City, probably passing over Aurora, Iowa City, Des Moines, Omaha and Cheyenne. From Salt Lake City to Oakland the route includes Elko, Reno and Sacramento.

Major Kingsford-Smith met Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh for the first time yesterday, when the colonel went to his hotel.

Congratulations were exchanged on the celebrated flights of both men, and also on such personal matters as the Lindbergh baby and Major Kingsford-Smith's coming marriage. Lindbergh told the Australian that he considered the flight from Oakland to Australia across the Pacific "the greatest flight ever made."

Kingsford-Smith replied, "Oh, but I had four men and three motors on that flight. You flew alone and had only one engine."

The major thinks Lindbergh is "a hell of a swell guy," he told reporters later.

CONFESSES ROBBERIES

St. Paul, July 2.—(U.P.)—Raids on the first day that prohibition enforcement was taken over by the department of justice will bring 21 persons before United States Commissioner W. T. Goddard today.

M. L. Harney, new prohibition director, said the raids were the first of a "pre-Fourth of July" cleanup. All the persons arrested were booked on charges of violating the liquor laws.

PRISON-MADE
PRODUCTS SALES
TO BE HAMPEREDENACTMENT OF SUCH LAWS MAY FOLLOW HAWES-COOPER
BILL PROMULGATIONTO CAUSE STATE TO REORGAN-
IZE THEIR WHOLE PRISON SYSTEMS

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 2.—(U.P.)—Enactment of laws prohibiting the sale of prison-made products, "an inevitable result of the Hawes-Cooper bill," will cause states to take immediate steps toward reorganization of their prison systems, according to Gov. Henry S. Caulfield, of Missouri.

The executive of the state which harbors one of the largest penal institutions of the country, addressed the 22nd annual national conference of governors today, paving the way to a general discussion of a problem that has given many governors perplexed moments when they attempted to determine what they would use as a substitute for work to keep their prisoners occupied.

The Hawes-Cooper bill provides that prison-made goods will be subject to the "operation and effect of the laws of the state" into which they are transported, to the same extent as though they had been made in the state, and "shall not be exempt therefrom by reason of being introduced in the original package."

The law, in the opinion of most governors, will necessitate the exclusion of prison-made goods for the protection of citizen merchants.

With the exclusion of prison articles, employment for thousands of convicts will end, prison manufacturing plants, mines and farms will to a large extent close, and many states will face the problem of handling unemployed prisoners, unless a reorganization is promulgated, Governor Caulfield declared.

"It is universally recognized," he said, "that prisoners must be furnished with useful and profitable employment, the purposes being to train the prisoner to be self-supporting upon his release, to protect his mental and physical health, and to lighten the burden cast by his wrong-doing upon honest folks who must pay the taxes to support him."

"Systems of occupation for prisoners have been designated as the contract system, whereby the convicts are hired out on a per diem basis to private contractors; the public account system, whereby the state itself conducts its own industries, employing its convicts therein; the public works system, whereby the state uses its prisoners in building roads and other public works; and the state-use system, under which the state uses its convict labor solely to supply the needs of the state and of its political subdivisions."

The public account system, the most popular of the four, is the one most seriously affected by the bill, he declared. Sixty-five per cent of the cost of operating the Missouri institution is paid out of the earnings of prison industries.

Governor Caulfield suggested that all states should investigate, study the possibilities within the state and make a survey of the potential market among state departments and institutions before any change in the prison organization is undertaken.

He said that the outlook was not entirely hopeless, even though several governors were extremely gloomy concerning the future industries which must be reorganized and re-equipped to conform to the new field, he concluded.

PROPOSAL TO
INOCULATE SLAYER
IS ABANDONED

Santa Fe, N. M., July 2.—(U.P.)—The proposal to inoculate Woo Dak San, condemned Chinese slayer, with trachoma germs will be dropped, Gov. R. C. Dillon announced today.

The announcement came after a long conference between the governor and Dr. F. I. Proctor, trachoma research authority, who first advanced the proposal that the Oriental's death sentence be commuted to life imprisonment if he would offer himself to inoculation.

The power chairman, who with four other $10,000 a year commissioners to be named soon will control development of the nation's power resources, brings to his new job years of experience as chief of the board of army engineers for rivers and harbors.

In his late position, from which he was retired last year, Jadwin reviewed and passed upon thousands of rivers and harbors projects. These ranged in extent and cost from the vast and highly complicated system of Mississippi flood control to minor schemes for bridging creeks and dredging small canals.

CONGRESS GOES
BEYOND ESTIMATES
OF THE ENGINEERSPRESENT MEASURE IS THE BIG-GEST IN THE HISTORY OF THE COUNTRY

TOTAL COST MAY RUN FROM
$120,000,000 TO
$340,000,000

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, July 2.—The rivers and harbors bill, awaiting President Hoover's signature, constitutes a departure from a policy established 20 years ago, after a bitter congressional fight, which was designed to eliminate "pork" from such measures.

Congress at that time adopted the policy that proposed river and harbor projects must first be approved by the board of army engineers in the war department before being included in legislation.

In framing the present bill, congress went beyond the engineers in many instances. The present bill is the largest in the country's history. Estimates of its total cost vary from $120,000,000 to $340,000,000.

Congress changed its policy 25 years ago after a bitter fight, led by the late Senator Burton of Ohio, who filibustered a rivers and harbors bill all night, walking about in his carpet slippers as he spoke. This dramatic battle ended the old system whereby congressmen, by "log-rolling," voted millions of government money for local bridges and other projects, some of little use except to help the particular member in his campaign for reelection.

During the senate debate on the present measure, Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, declared congress had over-ridden the army engineers "to the tune of millions of dollars."

While there are some items in the bill not approved by the engineers, the measure carries out in some of its major provisions a large portion of President Hoover's inland waterway program whereby the vast system of the middle west will be joined with the Great Lakes and the Atlantic ocean.

Two of the most important provisions authorize the federal government to take over the Erie and Oswego canals in New York state and the Illinois waterway. The New York canals will be operated as barge canals only, the bill declaring the government's policy to be construction of a ship route from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic through the St. Lawrence.

An appropriation of $7,500,000 for completing the Illinois waterway is authorized by the bill. This will connect the Mississippi barge system with the Great Lakes.

Diversion of water from Lake Michigan for floating commerce in the waterway will be limited to the figures fixed by the supreme court, or a maximum of 1,500 cubic feet a second after 1938.

Other large projects in the bill include $15,000,000 for a six-foot channel on the upper Mississippi from Kansas City to Sioux City and $7,500,000 for a nine-foot channel on the upper Mississippi from the mouth of the Illinois river to Minneapolis and St. Paul.

House leaders today pondered over the reception they should accord the Portean world war veterans' pension bill which the senate returned late yesterday with far-reaching amendments.

The revised measure, passed by the house after President Hoover had vetoed a previous bill carrying higher rates, was amended in the senate to provide rates ranging from $10 to $60 rather than the $12 to $40 house scale. The senate, moreover, inserted the "vice habits" clause to which Mr. Hoover strongly objected when vetoing the original measure.

The split between the house and senate, threatening to delay adjournment, was widened still further by disputes over the Wickersham law enforcement commission's appropriation in the second deficiency bill and over the District of Columbia's appropriation bill.

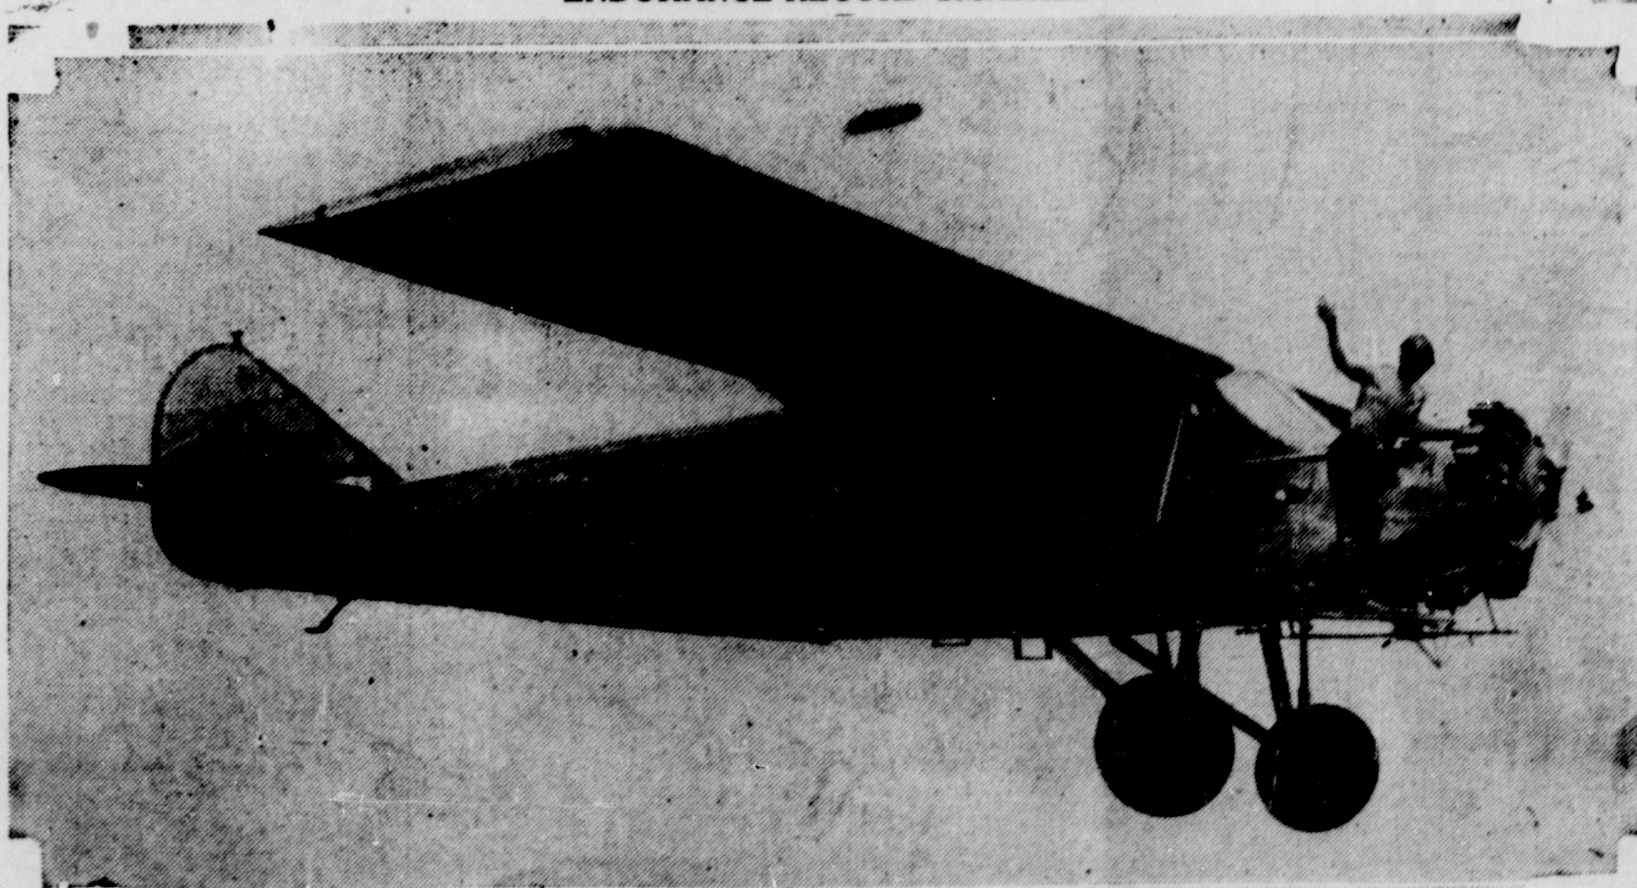

In the first instance, house leaders are seeking to substitute $250,000 for the $50,000 provided by the senate for the law enforcement commission. In the second, the senate is adamant for an appropriation of $12,000,000 for the District while the house is holding out for $9,000,000.

A retired army engineer whose name has been connected in the public mind for several years with Mississippi flood control, Major Gen. Edgar Jadwin, was named by President Hoover late yesterday as head of the reorganized, administration-sponsored federal power commission.

The power chairman, who with four other $10,000 a year commissioners to be named soon will control development of the nation's power resources, brings to his new job years of experience as chief of the board of army engineers for rivers and harbors.

In his late position, from which he was retired last year, Jadwin reviewed and passed upon thousands of rivers and harbors projects. These ranged in extent and cost from the vast and highly complicated system of Mississippi flood control to minor schemes for bridging creeks and dredging small canals.

ENDURANCE RECORD SMASHED

When this photograph was taken the City of Chicago had already broken the world's endurance record by more than thirty hours and was still soaring over Sky Harbor. John Hunter was at the controls when this picture was snapped, while his brother, Kenneth, was out on the catwalk tinkering with the motor.

Reviewing Rotary's Past Achievements

A REVIEW of Rotary's past achievements, and a forecast of the future, was given by Harry H. Rogers, Tulsa, Oklahoma, banker, who was president of Rotary when the only convention on the continent of Europe was held at Ostend, Belgium, in 1927. Mr. Rogers addressed the International Rotary assemblage at Chicago.

Rotary, he said, took the idea of friendship as old as the race, and gave it a new application by applying it to men of different business and professional callings, of different nationalities, creeds, races and stations in life.

There are more than five hundred student loan funds existing in Rotary clubs for the assistance of worthy young men and women, said Mr. Rogers, in itemizing Rotary activities.

There are many thousands of crippled children who have been helped by Rotary clubs.

There are great numbers of mendicants who have been taken off the streets in Latin-America through activities of Rotary clubs.

There are codes of standards of correct practice in 141 trade and professional associations which have been inspired by Rotarians, and Rotary can rightfully claim to have had a share in increasing the participation of employees in the business in which they are employed.

There are baseball diamonds, cricket fields and tennis courts, parks and playgrounds, wading pools, circulating rural libraries, vocational assistance for underprivileged children, back-to-school campaigns, boys bands, special schools for handicapped children, and many other civic monuments to the unselfish efforts of Rotary clubs.

"In the troublous countries of the world," said Mr. Rogers in pointing the pathway for Rotary in the next quarter century, "Rotary's influence is not to be found, or if found is so small as to be almost unnoticed. If India, China and Russia could only realize the great good to come from whole-hearted acceptance of Rotary's program, how much would be added to the tranquility of the world! Let the doubters call Chile, Peru, Mexico or Czechoslovakia.

"Rotary must increase its influence as a fact finding organization and increase its influence in shaping a healthy public opinion. Rotary cannot decide issues, local or international, but it can influence its members and friends to approach the discussion and decision of important, thought-perplexing problems, in the proper spirit.

"To the West, the East, the North and the South the idea of Rotary flew, along most peculiar paths and sometimes for least explainable reasons. And now as we come back home to celebrate the Silver Anniversary, we report 3,336 service stations in 64 countries. In these 3,336 service stations are to be found an average of 45 outstanding, successful and happy workmen.

"What an intensely interesting 25 years! Strange and beautiful friendships are constantly forming in our Rotary clubs with the result that civilization advances. Canadian, German, French and American Rotarians meet each other and each other's friends in Mexico City, London, Zurich or Berlin and clouds of homesickness roll away as newfound friends appear. Let your mind travel on, picturing anew that which has been yours to experience in and because of Rotary, in the few years of its existence, and you will begin to answer for yourselves the question 'Where are we?'"

To Serve One Million Farms

WITHIN four years electric service will be extended to 1,000,000 farms in the United States, according to a study made by the Middle West Utilities Company and commented on by the Manufacturer and Industrial News Bureau.

During the past eight years the number of farm electric customers reached has been almost as great as the number of all kinds of electric users. Five hundred thousand of the 6,300,000 American farms are now served by 150,000 miles of rural electric lines.

That electricity is of greater value to agriculture than any other single agency, is almost axiomatic. Every year on our farms about 30,000,000,000 man-hours of work are required for every 16,000,000,000 horsepower-hours delivered by animals and mechanisms. According to the study, the farm power plant is divided into about 24,612,000 units, animal and machine, because of the scattered jobs the farmer must accomplish. Average capacity per unit is only a trifle more than two horsepower and, despite its enormous aggregate of different kinds of power, farming still requires two man-hours of labor for every horsepower of work delivered by its animals and machines.

Farm electrification is changing all this. It permits of greater and cheaper production with less human and animal labor. Electricity is one of the cornerstones on which the agricultural foundation of the future is being erected.

Exhibiting at Duluth

LEADING peony growers of the United States are today and tomorrow exhibiting their choicest blooms in Duluth where the American Peony society is holding its national show in the Armory.

Exhibits were placed early this morning. The display is under the direction of the exhibition and classification committee of the Duluth Peony society. R. S. McIntosh, executive secretary of the Minnesota State Horticultural society, is in charge as secretary of the show.

A. P. Cardle of the Brainerd Nursery has taken a large exhibit to the show and persons who saw his blooms at the Crow Wing County Garden Flower society show are certain he will attract attention with his flowers. Intensive cultivation has given his plants luxuriant growth and has produced beautiful flowers.

JUNE is supposed to be the period when the earth is in tune, but in the case of that month in this area, June is really of mercurial temperament, switching cold and hot without provocation.

For Home Study

The national home study council is the banding together of the outstanding correspondence schools and several resident schools under fair-play standards to protect ambitious people from deception and imposition, and constantly to advance the standards of home study schools.

City Facilities for All

When Americans want things they usually get them. Today there are few houses so isolated that to a greater or less extent they cannot have the facilities that formerly were to be found only in the cities. The dweller on "acreage" and the summer camper are alike blessed by invention.

JUDGE K. M. LANDIS STILL RULES ORGANIZED BASEBALL

Fouls From Low Blows Ruled Out of Existence

DRASTIC ACTION IS TAKEN BY THE
NEW YORK BODY

N. Y. ATHLETIC COMMISSION RE-QUIRES FIGHTERS ABDOMI-
NAL PROTECTION

MUST CONTINUE FIGHTING NO MATTER WHERE THEY ARE HIT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, July 2.—(U.P.)—Fouls from low blows have been legislated out of existence in boxing contests in New York State as a result of the most drastic action ever taken by a boxing commission.

The New York State athletic commission has ruled that each boxer must equip himself with adequate abdominal protection and continue fighting no matter where he is hit. If a blow lands below the belt and a fighter goes down, he will be counted out exactly as if the punch landed above the belt.

The new rule, passed yesterday by the three commissioners, James A. Farley, William Muldoon, and J. J. Phelan, will go into effect with the Sammy Mandell-Al Singer lightweight championship bout at Yankee stadium July 17.

For striking an illegal blow, or a punch below the belt, the only penalty under the new rule will be the loss of the round in which it occurred.

"It is now up to every boxer to wear a protector which will render a low punch harmless," said Chairman Farley. "It has been demonstrated that such protectors are available. If a boxer goes down claiming foul now he will be counted out. If he gets up the round will be scored in his favor."

Under the new rule Max Schmeling would have been counted out when he failed to answer the bell for the fifth round, and Jack Sharkey would have won by a knockout.

The new rule is the outgrowth of tests made by Sammy Mandell and Al Singer wearing a "Taylor cup" and both found that the protector was fool-proof.

GRIFFITH TO MEET RISKO IN CHICAGO TONIGHT

MEN ARE TWO ROUGH AND TOUGH FIST
FIGHTERS

BOTH OF CONTESTANTS HAVE HAD THEIR UPS
AND DOWNS

By BERT DEMBEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, July 2.—(U.P.)—Two rough and tough fist fighters, both of whom have had their ups and downs, meet in the Chicago stadium tonight to decide which is the more logical choice for a chance at the heavyweight championship.

Gerald Ambrose Griffith, long since dubbed "Tuffy," will be out for his third straight win over Johnny Risko, the Cleveland rubber man, and hopes for a victory to reassert his claim for serious attention in heavyweight circles. Risko, fresh from his "come-back" victories over Vittorio Campolo and Paulino Uzcudun, is confident he can conquer the Sioux City tough boy and get back in the ranks of class A contenders.

Betting odds favored Griffith at 6 to 5 with little Risko money in sight. The attraction seemed certain to draw at least 16,000 fans.

For Griffith, tonight's fight is all-important. After his unexpected knockout of Jim Braddock two years ago, Tuffy had been going along fast in his climb toward the top. Then came the even more unexpected technical knockout from Jack Gagnon. Subsequently he won a 10-round decision victory over the same Gagnon.

In their two previous meetings, Tuffy beat Risko by a seventh round foul in Detroit a year ago, and won a 10-round decision in New York last winter. It is chiefly on the basis of these performances that the odds favor Griffith tonight.

Risko weighed 193 3-4 pounds this afternoon when he weighed in. Griffiths weighed 185.

BABE RUTH
SUFFERS INJURY

TEARS NAIL OFF RING FINGER
TEMPTING TO CATCH FLY

New York, July 2.—(U.P.)—Babe Ruth suffered a painful injury to his left hand in attempting to catch a fly which went for a home run in the second inning of the second game of the New York Yankees-Chicago White Sox double-header today.

Carl Reynolds, Sox outfielder, made the homer which was his second of the game.

The nail was torn from the ring finger of the Babe's left hand which undoubtedly will keep him out of the game for some time. The finger was caught in the wire netting.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD IS HELD
BY EDDIE TOLAN

Vancouver, B. C., July 2.—(U.P.)—A new world's record was held today by Eddie Tolan, University of Michigan negro sprint star, who gave Percy Williams, Canadian Olympic champion, the second defeat of his career yesterday.

Tolan set his mark in the invitational 100 meters dash at the international athletic meet here with a time of 10 1-5 seconds. George Simpson, Ohio State, one of the outstanding challengers of dash records, came second, a scant two feet behind Tolan.

Tolan placed third in the event, but his time of 10 3-5 seconds, in which he was equalled the world's record of 10 3-5 seconds. Tolan was second in this event.

The other outstanding mark of the meet was made by a slender Vancouver high school girl, Lillian Palmer, who set a new world's record in the 50 yard dash for women with a time of 5 4-5 seconds. The former record of six seconds flat was held by Rosa O'Neil, Toronto.

(By United Press)
The Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Athletics, leaders in the turbulent 1930 major league pennant races today prepared to defend on extended road trips the honors gained during their current home stands.

The Cubs complete a 15-game home stay today with the New York Giants and then take the road for a 23-game tour of the seven rival National League cities.

The Athletics close their series with Detroit today and after meeting New York in a single game Thursday, go on tour until July 28.

Dibrell Williams' home run with two mates on base and Lefty Groves' pitching gave the Athletics a 4 to 1 victory over Detroit yesterday. Groves allowed only one hit in the five innings played before rain ended the contest.

Fred Fitzsimmons pitched the New York Giants to a 7 to 5 triumph over the Cubs. Kiki Cuyler drove in 4 runs with two homers and Hack Wilson scored the Chicagoans' other run with a circuit drive. Bob Fitzsimmons kept the other sluggers in check.

Brooklyn failed to profit by the Cubs' defeat, dropping a 15 to 7 decision to St. Louis. The Cardinals bombarded Clark, Dudley and Elliott for 11 runs in the third inning.

Rain prevented the New York Yankees and Washington Senators keeping pace in the American League, and Milt Gaston stopped the other first division team.

Gaston held Cleveland to 3 hits and gave Boston a 3 to 1 victory.

Larry French, Pittsburgh's only left-handed pitcher, shut out Boston for 6 innings and gave the Pirates an 8 to 3 victory.

Kansas City, July 2.—The Kansas City Blues battered four Toledo pitchers off the mound, collected 20 hits and won yesterday's game, 12 to 8.

Minneapolis, July 2.—Minneapolis and Louisville were all square with two games each in their series today. Minneapolis took the fourth game yesterday, 8 to 6.

St. Paul, July 2.—St. Paul left Indianapolis without a score in the first game of a double-header here yesterday, winning 7 to 0. They couldn't hold the pace, however, and dropped the nightcap, 6 to 2.

Milwaukee, July 2.—Milwaukee made it three-to-one over Columbus here yesterday, taking the fourth game of the series by a 10 to 6 score. It was Ed Strelecki's fourth straight victory.

CONCERTED ATTACK ON BOXING LAWS

AMERICAN LEGION WANTS RE-VISION OF SECTIONS OF FIGHT CODE

St. Paul, July 2.—(U.P.)—A concerted attack on Minnesota's boxing laws was launched today by the American Legion.

The Legion will ask revision of the section of the law which prohibits boxing in all cities except Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. The move is sponsored by smaller Legion posts of the state which wish to stage boxing bouts.

At a preliminary committee meeting in Minneapolis Sunday, representatives of 480 local posts will draw up their substitute statute. The legislation will then be submitted to the state convention at Crookston on August 4-6.

Members of the committee which will meet Sunday are Dr. James J. Morrow, Austin, chairman, Ever Olson, West Duluth, Patrick J. Farnham, Hibbing, John A. Weeks, Minneapolis, and Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul.

SHARKEY AND MAX
SCHMELING MATCHED

WILL MEET IN RETURN ENGAGE-MENT AT NEW YORK ON SEPTEMBER 25

New York, July 2.—(U.P.)—Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling will meet in a return heavyweight championship bout at Yankee Stadium September 25, the Madison Square Garden Corporation announced today.

Sharkey today signed articles of agreement for the fight. John Buckley, Sharkey's manager, and John Conway, his legal advisor, came here from Boston this morning and signed the papers.

Schmeling's signature has been promised and is only a mere technicality, Walter St. Dennis, the Garden publicity manager, said.

CARL REYNOLDS
IN RECORD PLAY

HITS 3 HOME RUNS IN 3 CON-
SECUTIVE TIMES AT BAT
IN ONE GAME

Yankee Stadium, New York, July 2.—(U.P.)—Carl Reynolds, Chicago White Sox outfielder, equaled a record for modern baseball today by hitting three home runs in three consecutive times at bat in one game, the second of a double-header with the New York Yankees.

Reynolds hit his first two homers in the second and third innings off Rufing and his third in the third inning off Holloway.

George Kelly, former New York Giants first baseman, duplicated this feat on Sept. 17, 1923.

WALTER MOYNIHAN
CENTRAL MINNESOTA
GOLF CHAMPION

Bemidji, Minn., July 2.—(U.P.)—Walter Moynihan, Sauk Center, today was central Minnesota golf champion. He defeated R. T. Leach, Alexandria, in the finals 1 up.

Moynihan entered the finals by defeating Richard Strobel, St. Cloud, defending champion, 1 up. Leach had won from H. W. Riley, St. Cloud, 4 and 3, in the other semi-final match.

T. P. Groschup, Bemidji, defeated W. Campbell, St. Cloud, 6 and 5 in the fifth flight of the tournament while B. Hanson, St. Cloud, won the eighth flight from A. J. Voshage, Bemidji.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION CLUB
OWNERS DISCARD SPLIT
SEASON IDEA

FEDERAL SUIT OVER LANDIS'
ORDER ON BENNETT TO BE WITHDRAWN

Chicago, July 2.—(U.P.)—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis still rules organized baseball and the threat of the Class AA minor leagues to dethrone him has been discarded.

Owners of the American Association clubs, in a meeting here yesterday, decided to reject the proposal for a split season and adopted a resolution pledging their allegiance to Landis. At the same time it was indicated that the federal court suit brought by the Milwaukee club to restrain enforcement of Landis' transfer order on Fred Bennett, Milwaukee outfielder and first baseman, would be withdrawn, thus giving Landis a clean-cut victory in his most recent skirmish with opponents of his regime.

Landis had ordered the St. Louis Browns, part owners of the Milwaukee club, to declare Bennett a free agent, waive him to another club in the American League, or to sell him outright. The Browns management refused this order and the Milwaukee club filed suit to restrain the order from taking effect.

The successful fight against the split season idea was led by Louisville, present leader in the Association flag chase.

New York, July 2.—(U.P.)—Babe Ruth hit his 31st home run of the season today in the fifth inning of the first game of a double header between the Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees. Byrd was on base and Frank Henry was pitching.

Hard to "Succeed"

UNTIL the New York Yankees critics were silenced. But hardly hit a winning stride in the middle of June, Bob Shawkey, successor to the late Miller Huggins as manager of that team, was the target for baseball's entire "I-told-you-so" clan.

Then the team began to "get the breaks"—Ruth got his old familiar home-run range, Gehrig resumed his smashing "buster" role, the pitching improved, and the June Western trip produced a distinct victory trend.

The grandstand grumblers subsided for the nonce, but some of the die-hards still exclaim: "What Hug could do with that outfit!"

Of course, there's a long stretch ahead in the American League race and the famed Yankee machine, which showed signs of a crack-up last summer and this Spring, may do that again before October dawns.

Nothing less than the world's championship on top of the pennant will satisfy rabid critics, who just can't understand why Shawkey was picked to succeed Huggins. Copyright, 1930, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Reviewing Rotary's Past Achievements

A REVIEW of Rotary's past achievements, and a forecast of the future, was given by Harry H. Rogers, Tulsa, Oklahoma, banker, who was president of Rotary when the only convention on the continent of Europe was held at Ostend, Belgium, in 1927. Mr. Rogers addressed the International Rotary assemblage at Chicago.

Rotary, he said, took the idea of friendship as old as the race, and gave it a new application by applying it to men of different business and professional callings, of different nationalities, creeds, races and stations in life.

There are more than five hundred student loan funds existing in Rotary clubs for the assistance of worthy young men and women, said Mr. Rogers, in itemizing Rotary activities.

There are many thousands of crippled children who have been helped by Rotary clubs.

There are great numbers of mendicants who have been taken off the streets in Latin-America through activities of Rotary clubs.

There are codes of standards of correct practice in 141 trade and professional associations which have been inspired by Rotarians, and Rotary can rightfully claim to have had a share in increasing the participation of employees in the business in which they are employed.

There are baseball diamonds, cricket fields and tennis courts, parks and playgrounds, wading pools, circulating rural libraries, vocational assistance for underprivileged children, back-to-school campaigns, boys bands, special schools for handicapped children, and many other civic monuments to the unselfish efforts of Rotary clubs.

"In the troublous countries of the world," said Mr. Rogers in pointing the pathway for Rotary in the next quarter century, "Rotary's influence is not to be found, or if found is so small as to be almost unnoticed. If India, China and Russia could only realize the great good to come from whole-hearted acceptance of Rotary's program, how much would be added to the tranquility of the world! Let the doubters call Chile, Peru, Mexico or Czechoslovakia.

"Rotary must increase its influence as a fact finding organization and increase its influence in shaping a healthy public opinion. Rotary cannot decide issues, local or international, but it can influence its members and friends to approach the discussion and decision of important, thought-perplexing problems, in the proper spirit.

"To the West, the East, the North and the South the idea of Rotary flew, along most peculiar paths and sometimes for least explainable reasons. And now as we come back home to celebrate the Silver Anniversary, we report 3,336 service stations in 64 countries. In these 3,336 service stations are to be found an average of 45 outstanding, successful and happy workmen.

"What an intensely interesting 25 years! Strange and beautiful friendships are constantly forming in our Rotary clubs with the result that civilization advances. Canadian, German, French and American Rotarians meet each other and each other's friends in Mexico City, London, Zurich or Berlin and clouds of homesickness roll away as newfound friends appear. Let your mind travel on, picturing anew that which has been yours to experience in and because of Rotary, in the few years of its existence, and you will begin to answer for yourselves the question 'Where are we?'"

To Serve One Million Farms

WITHIN four years electric service will be extended to 1,000,000 farms in the United States, according to a study made by the Middle West Utilities Company and commented on by the Manufacturer and Industrial News Bureau.

During the past eight years the number of farm electric customers reached has been almost as great as the number of all kinds of electric users. Five hundred thousand of the 6,300,000 American farms are now served by 150,000 miles of rural electric lines.

That electricity is of greater value to agriculture than any other single agency, is almost axiomatic. Every year on our farms about 30,000,000,000 man-hours of work are required for every 16,000,000,000 horsepower-hours delivered by animals and mechanisms. According to the study, the farm power plant is divided into about 24,612,000 units, animal and machine, because of the scattered jobs the farmer must accomplish. Average capacity per unit is only a trifle more than two horsepower and, despite its enormous aggregate of different kinds of power, farming still requires two man-hours of labor for every horsepower of work delivered by its animals and machines.

Farm electrification is changing all this. It permits of greater and cheaper production with less human and animal labor. Electricity is one of the cornerstones on which the agricultural foundation of the future is being erected.

Exhibiting at Duluth

LEADING peony growers of the United States are today and tomorrow exhibiting their choicest blooms in Duluth where the American Peony society is holding its national show in the Armory.

Exhibits were placed early this morning. The display is under the direction of the exhibition and classification committee of the Duluth Peony society. R. S. McIntosh, executive secretary of the Minnesota State Horticultural society, is in charge as secretary of the show.

A. P. Cardie of the Brainerd Nursery has taken a large exhibit to the show and persons who saw his blooms at the Crow Wing County Garden Flower society show are certain he will attract attention with his flowers. Intensive cultivation has given his plants luxuriant growth and has produced beautiful flowers.

City Facilities for All

When Americans want things they usually get them. Today there are few houses so isolated that to a greater or less extent they cannot have the facilities that formerly were to be found only in the cities. The dweller on "acreage" and the summer camper are alike blessed by invention.

JUDGE K. M. LANDIS STILL RULES ORGANIZED BASEBALL

Fouls From Low Blows Ruled Out of Existence

DRASTIC ACTION IS TAKEN BY THE NEW YORK BODY

N. Y. ATHLETIC COMMISSION REQUIRES FIGHTERS ABDOMINAL PROTECTION

MUST CONTINUE FIGHTING NO MATTER WHERE THEY ARE HIT

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, July 2.—(U.P.)—Fouls from low blows have been legislated out of existence in boxing contests in New York State as a result of the most drastic action ever taken by a boxing commission.

The New York State athletic commission has ruled that each boxer must equip himself with adequate abdominal protection and continue fighting no matter where he is hit. If a blow lands below the belt and a fighter goes down, he will be counted out exactly as if the punch landed above the belt.

The new rule, passed yesterday by the three commissioners, James A. Farley, William Muldoon, and J. J. Phelan, will go into effect with the Sammy Mandell-Al Singer lightweight championship bout at Yankee stadium July 17.

For striking an illegal blow, or a punch below the belt, the only penalty under the new rule will be the loss of the round in which it occurred.

"It is now up to every boxer to wear a protector which will render a low punch harmless," said Chairman Farley. "It has been demonstrated that such protectors are available. If a boxer goes down claiming foul now he will be counted out. If he gets up the round will be scored in his favor."

Under the new rule Max Schmeling would have been counted out when he failed to answer the bell for the fifth round, and Jack Sharkey would have won by a knockout.

The new rule is the outgrowth of tests made by Sammy Mandell and Al Singer wearing a "Taylor cup" and both found that the protector was foul-proof.

GRIFFITH TO MEET RISKO IN CHICAGO TONIGHT

MEN ARE TWO ROUGH AND TOUGH FIST FIGHTERS

BOTH OF CONTESTANTS HAVE HAD THEIR UPS AND DOWNS

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, July 2.—(U.P.)—Two rough and tough fist fighters, both of whom have had their ups and downs, meet in the Chicago stadium tonight to decide which is the more logical choice for a chance at the heavyweight championship.

Gerald Ambrose Griffith, long since dubbed "Tuffy," will be out for his third straight win over Johnny Risko, the Cleveland rubber man, and hopes for a victory to reassert his claim for serious attention in heavyweight circles. Risko, fresh from his "come-back" victories over Vittorio Campolo and Paulino Uzcudun, is confident he can conquer the Sioux City tough boy and get back in the ranks of class A challengers.

Betting odds favored Griffith at 6 to 5 with little Risko money in sight. The attraction seemed certain to draw at least 16,000 fans.

For Griffith, tonight's fight is all-important. After his unexpected knockout of Jim Braddock two years ago, Tuffy had been going along fast in his climb toward the top. Then came the even more unexpected technical knockout from Jack Gagnon. Subsequently he won a 10-round decision victory over the same Gagnon.

In their two previous meetings, Tuffy beat Risko by a seventh round foul in Detroit a year ago, and won a 10-round decision in New York last winter. It is chiefly on the basis of these performances that the odds favor Griffith tonight.

Risko weighed 193 3/4 pounds this afternoon when he weighed in. Griffiths weighed 185.

BABE RUTH SUFFERS INJURY

TEARS NAIL OFF RING FINGER OF LEFT HAND WHILE ATTEMPTING TO CATCH FLY

New York, July 2.—(U.P.)—Babe Ruth suffered a painful injury to his left hand in attempting to catch a fly which went for a home run in the second inning of the second game of the New York Yankees-Chicago White Sox double-header today.

Carl Reynolds, Sox outfielder, made the homer which was his second of the game.

The nail was torn from the ring finger of the Babe's left hand which undoubtedly will keep him out of the game for some time. The finger was caught in the wire netting.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD IS HELD BY EDDIE TOLAN

Vancouver, B. C., July 2.—(U.P.)—A new world's record was held today by Eddie Tolan, University of Michigan negro sprint star, who gave Percy Williams, Canadian Olympic champion, the second defeat of his career yesterday.

Tolan set his mark in the invitational 100 meters dash at the international athletic meet here with a time of 10 1/5 seconds. George Simpson, Ohio State, one of the outstanding challengers of dash records, came second, a scant two feet behind Tolan.

Tolan placed third in the event, 220 yards, in which he equalled the world's record of 20 3/5 seconds. Tolan was second in this event.

The other outstanding mark of the meet was made by a slender Vancouver high school girl, Lilian Palmer, who set a new world's record in the 50 yard dash for women with a time of 5 4/5 seconds. The former record of six seconds flat was held by Rosa O'Neil, Toronto.

LEADERS PREPARE TO DEFEND SELVES ON ROAD TRIPS

HONORS GAINED BY CUBS AND ATHLETICS IN HOME STANDS

CHICAGO TEAM IN 23-GAME TOUR WITH 7 RIVAL NATIONAL LEAGUE CLUBS

Of course, even "Hug" did not escape the knocking legions entirely. However, his death emphasized his splendid record so much that even the most habitual critics were silenced. But hardly had Huggins eulogies become history than "the grandstand managers" sighted all their guns on Shawkey. Who was he? An expirer who had been serving the Yanks as a rather mild coach?

What did Bob know about club discipline, or diamond tactics, or strategy?

The Yanks made a disappointing finish last year. This Spring their punch seemed gone, the pitching was ragged, defeats frequent, and the new manager shared the onus of responsibility.

Shawkey may have shivered, but if he did so it was in private. The cool-headed "Bob the Gob" did not go up in the air, break down, or visibly wince when pounded above and below the belt by bewailers of the Yanks' form and fate.

Then the team began to "get the breaks"—Ruth got his old familiar home-run range, Gehrig resumed his smashing "buster" role, the pitching improved, and the June Western trip produced a distinct victory trend.

The grandstand grumblers subsided for the nonce, but some of the die-hards still exclaim: "What Hug could do with that outfit!"

Dr. Charles H. Mayo, of Rochester, world famous surgeon, accompanied by his wife and two children, will spend the holiday week end at Breezy Point Lodge. Annually he finds the north woods and lakes offer him rest and recreation.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, czar of all the baseball world, who just recently has gained two victories, emerging triumphantly from disputes over rules, etc., has been enjoying fishing at the border and on Thursday is expected to fly southward to the Rosko airport, where he will be met by automobile and taken to the Big Pelican Lake resort.

More and more sports enthusiasts will wing their way to the lake region and enjoy the wealth of recreation afforded.

GIRL, STRUCK BY FATHER, IS DYING

Bertha, Minn., July 2.—(AP)—Ruth McConnell, 14, dying from an axe blow struck by her father, gradually weakened today. Her death was only a matter of time, Dr. W. W. Will, attending physician, said.

Unless infection sets in, the girl's death may be postponed for some days, Dr. Will said. The axe blow crushed her skull and entered the brain.

Howard R. McConnell, the father, struck the girl Sunday, leaving her for dead. He later committed suicide by hanging. He was thought to be depressed by the death of his wife 14 months ago.

NEW TEE PEE STATION OFFERS FINE SERVICE

The new Tee Pee Oil Co. master service station at the corner of 6th and Norwood streets representing an expenditure of $20,000 embodies the latest of its type in the care and servicing of the motor vehicle.

The station's modern equipment includes hydraulic lifts for the changing of oil and lubrication service, a new drainage system eliminating contact with waste oil, power washing machines, two stalls for lubrication and one for washing.

Three pumps dispense needs for gasoline. A total of 6,000 watt power is used in lighting the outside which has 4,200 square feet of paving.

B. C. Pulkrabek is in charge of the station. He has employed six.

Dr. Charles H. Mayo, World Famous Surgeon; K. M. Landis of Chicago Here for Week End

Dr. Charles H. Mayo, of Rochester, world famous surgeon, accompanied by his wife and two children, will spend the holiday week end at Breezy Point Lodge. Annually he finds the north woods and lakes offer him rest and recreation.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, czar of all the baseball world, who just recently has gained two victories, emerging triumphantly from disputes over rules, etc., has been enjoying fishing at the border and on Thursday is expected to fly southward to the Rosko airport, where he will be met by automobile and taken to the Big Pelican Lake resort.

More and more sports enthusiasts will wing their way to the lake region and enjoy the wealth of recreation afforded.

GIRL, STRUCK BY FATHER, IS DYING

Bertha, Minn., July 2.—(U.P.)—Ruth McConnell, 14, dying from an axe blow struck by her father, gradually weakened today. Her death was only a matter of time, Dr. W. W. Will, attending physician, said.

Unless infection sets in, the girl's death may be postponed for some days, Dr. Will said. The axe blow crushed her skull and entered the brain.

Howard R. McConnell, the father, struck the girl Sunday, leaving her for dead. He later committed suicide by hanging. He was thought to be depressed by the death of his wife 14 months ago.

NEW TEE PEE STATION OFFERS FINE SERVICE

The new Tee Pee Oil Co. master service station at the corner of 6th and Norwood streets representing an expenditure of $20,000 embodies the latest of its type in the care and servicing of the motor vehicle.

The station's modern equipment includes hydraulic lifts for the changing of oil and lubrication service, a new drainage system eliminating contact with waste oil, power washing machines, two stalls for lubrication and one for washing.

Three pumps dispense needs for gasoline. A total of 6,000 watt power is used in lighting the outside which has 4,200 square feet of paving.

B. C. Pulkrabek is in charge of the station. He has employed six.

INVESTIGATORS LEAVE, WORK DONE

N. P. Inspector Praises Work of Local and County Protection Agencies

Two men, paid by their companies to protect their interests bid goodbye to Brainerd last evening after assisting local and county officials in solving and tracking down characters that resulted in the sentencing of three to Stillwater prison.

J. S. Hindman, chief investigator for the Northern Pacific Railway Co. was off for the Pacific coast and to visit his wife at Hope, Idaho.

Hindman who did master investigation work in solving the theft of 300 pounds of tin from the Northern Pacific shops here in August, 1929, the theft of 1200 pounds of pig iron from the N. P. on May 8 of this year and 1600 pounds of pig tin from the Brainerd foundry on June 9 and who assisted in uncovering evidence that brought about confessions and sentences of Fred Ledoux, Harold "Hap" Holley and Charles Gunion, modestly gave a statement to the Dispatch before leaving.

"I want to thank the law enforcement agencies in Brainerd and the county for their wholehearted cooperation, Sheriff Claus Theorin and his deputies, County Attorney Arthur J. Sullivan and Chief of Police Thomas Templeton and his staff and Mr. Ewen of the Bell deserve a lot of credit. I want them to know that any time in the future I can be of assistance to them I would be only too willing to give it. I feel it a duty to my company and to the people of Brainerd and Crow Wing county," Mr. Hindman said.

The work of H. B. Ewen, detective in the employ of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. in solving the robbery of 27 coils of copper wire owned by the Bell from a storage garage on May 21 was in itself master sleuthing, almost fiction like.

For days the detective lived in a cottage alone near one cache of stolen wire, cooked his own meals and remained always on the lookout for the burglars to claim the wire. Three times the burglars came to the wire with Mr. Ewen in hiding not six feet from them. He postponed their arrest until sufficient evidence had been gathered to convict them.

The group of law enforcement agencies also brought about the clearing up of the theft of a trailer on May 21, a stolen car on May 6, an attempted holdup on May 8, and the robbery of gas and oil from filling stations.

LUM PARK SLATES FINE ORCHESTRAS

Eli Rice to Return August 12 and 19; Grant Moore Here July 15

Continuing his policy of providing the best of music for dancers of Brainerd and the district, Robert Block, manager of Lum Park, has booked the return of Eli Rice and his Cottonpickers for August 12 and 19 and Grant Moore and his colored band for Tuesday evening, July 15.

Rice and his orchestra played to a large number at the dance at the pavilion last evening. The announcement of the return of the orchestra was met with hearty approval.

Moore's band is rated as the best colored orchestra on tour this season. Its engagements through winter seasons include the Wisconsin Roof Garden at Milwaukee, Sam Pick's cafe at Milwaukee, the Mirror Ballroom at Detroit and the Recreation Ballroom at Toledo, Ohio. The band has been recorded several times.

A red, white and blue carnival dance will be the feature at Lum tomorrow evening while a jitney dance will be held afternoon and evening of the Fourth. A country store dance is scheduled for Saturday evening. Ray Nelson and His Revelers will play.

"AG" SCHOOL HEAD PICNIC SPEAKER

Dean W. C. Coffey to be Main Speaker at County Farm Bureau Picnic July 11

W. C. Coffey, dean of the College of Agriculture of University Farm, St. Paul, will be the main speaker at the Crow Wing County Farm Bureau picnic at Lum Park Friday, July 11.

Dean Coffey is an authority on agriculture and worth travelling miles to hear.

Everybody in the county, city and country people are invited to participate in the greatest picnic in years. Thousands are planning to attend. Farm Bureau, 4H Club and Home Management groups are planning parties.

Prizes have been raised by a committee for sports to include foot races, tug of war, horse shoe pitching tournaments, swimming and kittenball. Everyone is urged to bring a lunch and to invite his and her friend. An effort is being made to make the picnic a brilliant success.

NORTHEAST CHURCH TO PICNIC THE 4TH

The Zion Evangelical church of Northeast Brainerd will have a Sunday school and church picnic on the Fourth at Holmes' point on Gilbert Lake.

All members and friends are invited to come, bringing a basket dinner and dishes.

The committee asks that each family bring a few lemons for making lemonade while a collection will be taken to defray expense of ice cream.

Kittenball games, races, volleyball and other sports will be held. Dinner will be served at noon.

ROTARY REGIME UNDER HAL DAY

President of Club Announces List of
Officers and the Newly Appointed Committees

Appreciates Confidence Shown in Him
by the Members of the Local Club

Introduced by Past President Dr. George H. Ribbel, President Hal Day took the leadership of the Brainerd Rotary club yesterday and thanked the members for the honor conferred and for the confidence they had shown in electing him.

"This is not a one man's job," said Mr. Day, "and to be successful in handling and directing the club affairs I must have the cooperation of all the members. There should be no dead timber on any committee. I have gone over the whole membership list and have given every one something to do."

The new officers are:

President, Hal Day.

Vice President, Frank N. Russell.

Secretary, G. W. Chadbourne.

Treasurer, N. V. Schedin.

Directors, Earl Draper, Dr. R.

Beise, Arthur J. Sullivan, S. R. Adair, Sergeant-at-Arms, F. W. Wieland. Secretary, Frank Johnson. Committee on Vocational Service, S. R. Hickerson chairman, and William V. Turcotte, Hans Hanson, Dr. R. A. Hallquist, Henry Hoffmann.

Committee on Community Service, G. D. LaBar chairman and J. P. Anderson, I. L. Peterson, O. A. Peterson and R. T. Campbell.

Committee on International Service, Rev. N. P. Olmsted chairman and C. N. Erickson, Wm. A. Spencer.

Committee on Fellowship, Dr. G. H. Ribbel chairman and A. C. Ebert, D. E. Whitney, William Graham, Robert Nichols, Leigh Slipp, T. H. Schaefer, A. C. Tommald.

Committee on Program, Frank N. Russell chairman and John A. Hoffbauer.

Committee on Classification and Membership, R. R. Gould chairman and Henry Hoffmann.

Committee on Education, W. H. Gemmell chairman and W. C. Cobb.

Committee on Club Service, Carl Zapffe chairman, and Dr. G. H. Ribbel, Frank N. Russell, R. R. Gould, W. H. Gemmell.

Carl Zapffe, who attended the international convention at Chicago, gave interesting sidelights of the great gathering and of his experiences and impressions. "One cannot express all that Rotary means in a sentence or even a book," said the speaker. "The spirit of Rotary is intangible and can't only be gained by attendance at the district and international meetings where the experiences of men are recorded."

The foreign delegates favor peace and look for the United States, with its almost limitless power to lead the way. The next convention is at Vienna and Mr. Zapffe is already making preparations to attend, which will then be his third attendance.

Mr. Zapffe spoke of the various pageants, the music programs, the fireworks, in short the wonderful entertainment program to engross the attention of delegates and visitors after business sessions were over.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and patrons for the patronage and courtesy shown us while in business here. Any favor shown our successor, Mrs. Husted, will be appreciated by us.

MRS. M. KRACHER.
MRS. F. ATHMAN. 1tp

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all of our friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown during the death of our husband and father; especially do we thank all for the flowers, Miss Agnes Sundine for the song, and Rev. Samuelson for his kind words.

The following girls were assured a place in the contest while still others will be nominated today.

Genevieve James, 4th avenue N. E. Lois Garrard, 702 South 5th street. Patricia Zwicky, 918 Mill avenue N. E.

Selma Nygaard, 513 North 4th street. Frances Peterson, 513 North 4th street.

Doris Geist, 421 North 4th street. Arlene Hagberg, 624 Norwood street. Glennadeane Mahood, 303 North 5th street.

Ruth Gilson, Ft. Ripley.

Verna Persson, Brainerd Rte. 6.

Florence Jones, Deerwood.

Genevieve Jenkins, 702 South 7th street.

May Fitzpatrick, Brainerd Rte. 1.

Margaret Schley, Brainerd Star Rte.

Each nominee will receive 1,000 votes in the contest. Voting will close July 31 and the winner will join a party of 20 girls from Minnesota on the free trip to Alaska via the North Coast Limited to Seattle and from that city by a luxurious steamship. The trip will be made early in August.

The rules of the voting are: For each 3 months subscription to the Brainerd Daily Dispatch the candidate will receive 500 votes.

For each 6 months subscription to the Daily Dispatch the candidate will receive 1,000 votes.

For each year's subscription to the Daily Dispatch the candidate will receive 4,000 votes.

100 votes will be given each admi-

sion to the Paramount theatre which may be deposited in favor of any of the candidates.

The Dispatch will give 10 percent commission of money received for any new subscription to candidates not winning the title of "Miss Brainerd."

Mock Wedding in Honor of Mrs. Libby Bourgeois

After the regular meeting of the Royal Neighbors last evening in the I. O. O. F. hall a mock wedding was held in honor of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Libby Bourgeois. The honor guest was presented with a gift from the lodge.

Every detail of the wedding ceremony was carefully observed. Mrs. Bourgeois, the bride, was attired in white with a veil and carried an arrangement of roses. She was attended by Ethel Thomas and Irene Stevens, who wore flowered gowns, and picture hats. They carried white daisies. Mary Anderson took the part of the groom and Clarabelle Swanson that of the best man. Vina Gilmer, the flower girl, carried a basket of white roses.

The bride was given away by Beda Selen, who took the part of the bride's father. Emma Liners, playing the part of the minister, officiated. An altar was built in the hall to resemble that of a church and the wedding party marched slowly to it to the strains of the wedding march played by Vina LaVassar. Clara Grimer acted as usher.

After the mock ceremony Vina Gilmer played a recessional march and all ate a lunch served by the committee. The luncheon consisted of ice cream, angel food cake, bride's cake and frappe. Tables were decorated with white daisies and candles.

CHRYSLER SIX

Coupe $795 F. O. B. FACTORY

What a low price
for a Chrysler

Here is a motor car of true Chrysler quality—with 62-horsepower high-compression Chrysler six-cylinder engine mounted on rubber; Iso-therm pistons; low-sprung perfectly-balanced chassis; self-adjusting spring shackles; hydraulic shock absorbers; quiet all-metal bodies of dreadnought strength; and fine broadcloth upholstery.

And with the typical Chrysler power, speed, alertness in traffic, handling ease, stamina and comfort that these features make possible are combined the safety of Chrysler weatherproof internal hydraulic brakes and the distinction of Chrysler smartness and beauty.

All at a price which, for the first time, places a Chrysler within the reach of thousands who never before felt Chrysler ownership within their means.

Arrange with us for a ride in the new Chrysler Six that we may demonstrate today's leading value in the field of six-cylinder motor cars.

at 6th and Norwood Streets

New and modern equipment combined with experienced help and a desire to please makes it possible for you to get an unusual type of service at reasonable prices.

You will be pleased with the courtesies shown by the men in charge and with the conveniences available.

You will observe that changing the oil in your car or greasing the chassis need no longer be a dirty or messy job.

Cleanliness in the station itself and in the care of your car together with thoroughness and promptness in the rendering of service will impress you favorably.

Specialized Lubrication Service

Let us explain why we use a different type of lubricant for the various parts of your chassis. A grease suitable for the main chassis is not proper for the steering gear. The universal joint requires a special lubricant as do the front wheels and the water pump. You will not be satisfied with having your car greased the old way once you have it done as the manufacturer intended it.

Free Crank Case Service

Quaker State and Shell Motor Oils will give you dependable service. Let our station handle this service for you.

Shell and Super-Shell Gasoline

The popularity of Shell gasoline is accepted as the result of unusual quality. Try it and you too will likely "Change to SHELL".

ROTARY REGIME UNDER HAL DAY

President of Club Announces List of
Officers and the Newly Appointed Committees

Appreciates Confidence Shown in Him
by the Members of the Local Club

Introduced by Past President Dr. George H. Ribbel, President Hal Day took the leadership of the Brainerd Rotary club yesterday and thanked the members for the honor conferred and for the confidence they had shown in electing him.

"This is not a one man's job," said Mr. Day, "and to be successful in handling and directing the club affairs I must have the cooperation of all the members. There should be no dead timber on any committee. I have gone over the whole membership list and have given every one something to do."

The new officers are:

President, Hal Day.

Vice President, Frank N. Russell.

Secretary, G. W. Chadbourne.

Treasurer, N. V. Schedin.

Directors, Earl Draper, Dr. R.

Beise, Arthur J. Sullivan, S. R. Adair, Sergeant-at-Arms, F. W. Wieland. Sons, Leader, Frank Johnson. Committee on Vocational Service, S. R. Hickerson chairman, and William V. Turcotte, Hans Hanson, Dr. R. A. Hallquist, Henry Hoffmann. Committee on Community Service, G. D. LaBar chairman and J. P. Anderson, I. L. Peterson, O. A. Peterson and R. T. Campbell. Committee on International Service, Rev. N. P. Olmsted chairman and C. N. Erickson, Wm. A. Spencer. Committee on Fellowship, Dr. G. H. Ribbel chairman and A. C. Ebert, D. E. Whitney, William Graham, Robert Nichols, Leigh Slipp, T. H. Schaefer, A. G. Trommald.

Committee on Program, Frank N. Russell chairman and John A. Hoffbauer. Committee on Classification and Membership, R. R. Gould chairman and Henry Hoffmann.

Committee on Education, W. H. Gemmell chairman and W. C. Cobb. Committee on Club Service, Carl Zapffe chairman, and Dr. G. H. Ribbel, Frank N. Russell, R. R. Gould, W. H. Gemmell.

Carl Zapffe, who attended the international convention at Chicago, gave interesting sidelights of the great gathering and of his experiences and impressions. "One cannot express all that Rotary means in a sentence or even a book," said the speaker. "The spirit of Rotary is intangible and can't only be gained by attendance at the district and international meetings where the experiences of men are recorded."

The foreign delegates favor peace and look for the United States, with its almost limitless power to lead the way. The next convention is at Vienna and Mr. Zapffe is already making preparations to attend, which will then be his third attendance.

Mr. Zapffe spoke of the various pageants, the music programs, the fireworks, in short the wonderful entertainment program to engross the attention of delegates and visitors after business sessions were over.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and patrons for the patronage and courtesy shown us while in business here. Any favor shown our successor, Mrs. Husted, will be appreciated by us.

MRS. M. KRACHER.

MRS. F. ATHMAN. 1tp

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all of our friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown during the death of our husband and father; especially do we thank all for the flowers, Miss Agnes Sundine for the song, and Rev. Samuelson for his kind words.

THOUSANDS COMING TO BRAINERD LAKE REGION FOR FOURTH

GREATEST VOLUME OF TOURIST TRAFFIC IN HISTORY SEEN HERE

EVERY AVAILABLE ACCOMMODATION IN RESORTS AND COTTAGES ALREADY TAKEN

VANGUARD ALREADY HERE, AND HIGHWAY PATROL URGES OBSERVANCE OF ROAD RULES

Every available tourist accommodation in this district will be called into service over the Fourth of July to accommodate the largest number of tourists and holiday vacationists in the history of the Brainerd Lake Region. Checking resorts today, the Brainerd Dispatch learned that reservations made during the past two weeks have alone assured the complete fill-up of all accommodations.

One resort has assigned its help to tents to increase its number of cabins for the day and week-end.

Thousands of dollars from tourists will be poured into the district.

The vanguard of the thousands to come for the Fourth passed through the city today. All day tomorrow tourist cars will come to Brainerd, stop for replenishing of supplies and after a short visit here be off to the lake region. Throughout the night they will come, one steady stream of cars.

Only a few cottages of the thousands in the Brainerd lake area were to be unoccupied. Late comers will bid high for these while letters, telegrams and telephone messages continue to pour in to all places for accommodations.

Hundreds of Brainerd people who own cottages near the city have rented their summer homes to tourists and holiday vacationers from the larger cities to accommodate them.

State and county highway departments here announced today that all roads were in excellent condition for travel.

Officers of the Minnesota Highway Patrol warned motorists for strict observance of highway rules for the protection of the heavy streams of traffic on all highways.

Special programs have been arranged by many resorts for the entertainment of their guests, including golf tournaments, boat races, band concerts, field events and dances.

TRACING GUN USED TO SLAY 'JAKE' LINGLE

Los Angeles, July 2.—(UP)—The gun used to murder Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, may be one that was taken from Frankie Foster by a Chicago policeman a year ago, the gangster said here today.

"Yes, maybe my gun was used in the Lingle shooting," Foster told officers. "If it's the same gun I'm thinking of, it was taken from me by a Chicago policeman and never returned."

OLD FRIENDS ENJOY REUNION

Meet at M. F. Shannon Home in Daggett Brook Last Sunday

There was quite a reunion of old friends at the M. F. Shannon home in Daggett Brook last Sunday. A bounteous dinner was served and afterwards they all motored to the old cemetery to plan for the improving of the cemetery which has had no care for years. The cemetery is located in St. Mathias township, and many of the people at the reunion have relatives at rest there.

Among those gathered were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Glidden, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Gorton and son Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Nesheim, Mrs. Troxel of Laporte, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Shannon, Claude Shannon, V. Toms and two children of Emily, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. James, Mrs. L. Hilderbrand and daughter Anneth, Mrs. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Lew and two sons, Frank Cook and Ray Cook of Fort Ripley and Mr. Hawkes of Montana.

After the meeting at the cemetery the folks drove around the country to see their old homes as most of people lived in that neighborhood as far back as 50 years ago. It is needless to say that all enjoyed themselves to the utmost as they talked over old times and visited the places once so familiar.

While driving home more old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kinney of Motley and Mr. and Mrs. Will King and part of their family, were met unexpectedly though greatly to the pleasure of all.

BULLET IN HIS LEG FOR UNSUCCESSFUL HOLDUP ATTEMPT

Winona, Minn., July 2.—(UP)—Hugo Spetatra, 18, who said he came here from Chicago, was held in jail today as he nursed a bullet wound in the leg received in an unsuccessful holdup attempt. The boy attempted to rob the filling station of Charles Lake at Homer. Lake refused to obey the fleeing boy, who was struck in the leg. Spetatra was arrested and brought here.

Says Men More Sensitive

Modern women again score in tests made recently by Professor Uginelli, of Florence, Italy, which, he says, prove that the fair sex feel pain about one-tenth less severely, on the average, than do men. Human cheeks and foreheads are the most sensitive parts of the body, regardless of sex, the professor declares.

"ATTIC MAN" TO INVOKE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

OTTO SANHUBER ENDEAVORS TO FREE SELF FROM ALL GUILT IN CASE

CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER IN THE DEATH OF FRED OESTERREICH

Los Angeles, July 2.—(UP)—Otto Sanhuber, the little "attic man" convicted last night of manslaughter in connection with the death in 1922 of Otto Oesterreich, wealthy manufacturer, moved today to free himself from all guilt in the case.

Through his counsel, Sanhuber announced he would attempt to invoke the statute of limitations, which prohibits prosecution of a defendant more than three years after the alleged offense except for murder and treason. Sanhuber was tried for first degree murder, but the manslaughter verdict returned by the jury of six men and six women after deliberation of approximately seven hours, would permit an appeal under the limitations law, his attorneys said.

Oesterreich's shooting in 1922 was denied on the witness stand by Sanhuber, although a confession he allegedly made to the grand jury was read to the jury. The 100-pound defendant repudiated the confession, asserting he told the story to shield Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, widow of the manufacturer.

Sanhuber, telling of his love for Mrs. Oesterreich, said he hid in the garrets of her homes for several years in order to be near her. She was indicted with Sanhuber on the murder charge and will be tried soon.

Busted

Little Richard, aged four, had been watching the sun set with great interest. When the sun had sunk halfway below the horizon he turned to his mother and said: "Oh, look, mother, the sun is busted."

"WHERE'S EMILY?" by CAROLYN WELLS

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE

JUST before the rehearsal of her marriage to Rodney Sayre, Emily Duane leaves her exclusive Hilldale Park home to visit the hospital. She does not return and Rod and the guests become concerned. They are more perplexed when Jim Pennington, husband of Emily's best friend, Pauline, informs them that his wife, with whom he left the rehearsal about the same time as Emily, has also disappeared. Upon phoning the hospital, it is learned Emily never reached there. It is believed the two young women are together.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X.

ROD had seen the black maid hovering about in the hall, and he wanted to talk to someone who understood Emily.

"Tell me all you know of Miss Emily's talk on the telephone."

"Oh, Mistah Sayre, suh, she was dat glad to hear about Miss Kitty's lil' baby! She jes' said, 'Can I see dat chile?' and dey said yes, and she jumped up from de tellyphone quicker's scat, and presumed to run right erlong. She jes' stopped to hug me—she alwus does that when she's tickled to deff—and then she fled in here to tell you, suh, dat she was agwine and den she went."

"You saw her go? Think now, Pearl, did you?"

"Well," the girl hesitated and her big eyes rolled about till the whites were prominently exposed, "now, I cya'n't jes' say's I did see her go. But you did, didn't yo' Mistah Sayre, suh?"

Pearl was a sympathetic listener, and she caught a note in Rodney's voice that told her he was thinking deeply over the matter, though he was not saying much.

"Why, no, Pearl, I didn't see her go. I saw her leave this room, but she disappeared round the palms in the hall. I thought you might have seen her go out of the door."

"No, suh, I didn't. I went back to de kitchen fer a minute, and when I come in again she was gone."

"Why, Rodney, you don't think she didn't leave the house, do you?" and Nell grasped his hand in her earnestness.

"I don't think anything, Nell," he quietly drew his hand away, "but the fact remains we don't know where Emily is. If she is safe and sound, anywhere, up to any mischief or foolishness, that's all right. But if there's anything wrong—"

"That's what I want to say, dear Mr. Sayre," Garner put in, "if there is anything wrong, any tragedy in our midst, count on me to help and comfort you."

Rod wanted to say that he would gladly count him out on those two counts, but he couldn't be rude to a clergyman, so he merely bowed his appreciation of the offer, and hoped the man would go.

Aunt Judy threw herself into the breach.

"All right, Mr. Garner," she said, briskly. "We'll most certainly send for you if you can be of help or service. Now you run along home, for your dinner will be waiting. Goodness knows when we'll get ours!"

She struck the right note, for the man had not realized how late it was getting, and there was certainly no hope of dinner at Knollwood very soon.

With elaborate protestations of condolence and promises of future encouragement, he at last went away.

"Isn't he awful!" whispered Nell, as his footsteps grew fainter in the distance. "If he hadn't gone when he did, I'd have ushered him out myself. I could see how he annoyed you, Roddy, dear."

"Oh, no, he didn't. He meant well enough. Now, Nell, let me alone a minute, I want to think."

"Yes, indeedy. I'll do just that, and I'll sit right near by, and I won't let anybody speak to you."

ting a fresh ash tray on the table at his side.

Aunt Judy's black eyes winked at Rod over Nell's solicitous head, and he gave the old lady an answering smile.

The three were there alone, save for Pearl, who sat in the hall waiting the return of her young mistress.

"Emily's all right," Aunt Judy said complacently. "If you'd been through this, Rod, as often as I have, you wouldn't get stirred up."

"She frequently disappears, then?" and Sayre tried to speak lightly.

"Oh, yes. And she has stayed away for days at a time, but always turned up safe and sound."

"But this time it is a little different," Nell suggested.

Rodney wanted to shake her, but she had voiced the thought in his own mind.

"Yes," he had to agree, "this time it is different. Other times, she'd have gone off with some friends, I suppose."

"Yes," Aunt Judy said. "Why one night she went out at ten o'clock, and I didn't see her for a week!"

"Where was she?"

"Oh, she met some people she knew, in a car, and they picked her up and took her along with them to Tuxedos. She sent back the next day for clothes and things and she had a beautiful visit."

"How'd she come to go out alone as late as ten o'clock?" asked Nell.

"Oh, she only went for a little walk around the place. She happened to be alone that evening, so she was mooning about, and the crowd in the car picked her up. She loves a crazy performance like that. Oh, she was dressed well enough—had on a little flowered chiffon that—"

"What's she got on tonight?" said Nell, suddenly. "Oh, a dark blue crepe, I remember. She expected to dress for dinner, after the rehearsal."

"Didn't she have on her diamond necklace?" Aunt Judy said.

"Why, yes, I think so," and Nell's eyes opened wide. "Didn't she, Roddy?"

"Yes," he said, wishing she wouldn't call him that.

"Well, then, I'm worried," Nell declared. "If Emily went over to the hospital alone, with that glittering necklace on, anything might have happened!"

"Do hush, Nell!" said Sayre, goaded beyond endurance. "Don't frighten Aunt Judy. Nothing ever happens up here."

"Oh, doesn't it?" and Nell grew excited. "I suppose Mrs. Grant didn't have her car held up and her jewels taken, not so long ago! And I suppose there weren't burglars in the Caldwell house last week! Rodney, did you see her start off alone with that diamond necklace on and never say a word?"

"I wanted her to let me go with her, but she wouldn't," groaned the wretched man, who hadn't before thought of robbery or, indeed, of anything but some whimsical prank of Emily's.

"How would she go to the hospital?" said Nell, who was thinking seriously now.

"She said she was going cross-lots," Rodney informed her. "I don't know just where the hospital is—"

"Well, I do," and Nell shook her head. "And to go to it cross-lots is to go along the loneliest and darkest road in all Hilldale Park."

"But it wasn't dark, then," Rod-

ney said. "It was only just beginning to grow dusk."

"Well, it's dark enough now. And anyway, Rod, no matter what she said, you ought not to have let her go alone."

"Now, look here," and Sayre sat up straighter, "cut out this sort of talk. You know as well as I do that Emily is the apple of my eye, the core of my heart. When she said she was going to run over to the hospital, and for me to sit here until she came back, do you suppose I would have obeyed her if I'd had an inkling of any danger? She was bubbling over with joy about the baby, she said she'd be back in ten minutes, and the whole matter seemed of no more importance to me than anything else she has done since I've been here. If harm has come to her, I shall eternally regret that I let her go alone, but at the time and under the circumstances, there was no reason for my doing anything else. Nor would she have let me go with her. But, pshaw, Nell, there's no tragedy on, as you seem anxious to prove, and I'd go out this minute to search for her if I thought she was anything but safe and sound. What way is cross-lots?"

"You go down to our back entrance," Aunt Judy told him, "then you go along across the bridge over the big ravine, by the Miller house, then over the little ravine near the Pennington house, and then, it's just a short cut through the wood to the hospital."

"Through the wood?" Rod echoed, the phrase bringing up dark and gloomy pictures.

"Yes, but just a little wood," Aunt Judy averred. "It isn't dark there, not in the daytime—I've never been there at night."

"I wonder if the search party will go to that wood," said Nell going over to sit by Rod's side again.

"Of course," he returned, but he shuddered as one who was having a bad dream.

The situation seemed to grow more tense.

Rodney sat motionless on the sofa, declining further cigarettes that Nell offered.

Aunt Judy also relapsed into silence, and though Nell tried to keep up a run of gay chatter, it sounded hollow and inane when nobody answered or even heeded it.

And then, about eight o'clock the search party returned.

"The girls here?" asked Jim Pennington, trying to speak lightly.

"No," Nell told him, while Sayre just sat and brooded.

"Then I won't come in," Pennington said, "I'd better be over home. Maybe they're there by now."

"Telephone over and see," Aunt Judy suggested, but Jim shook his head.

"She isn't there," he said gravely. "We passed the house on our way here, and there's no light in the living room. That's why I came on here. But I'll go back and be there when Polly shows up. If she comes here, with Emily, of course you'll let me know at once."

He tried to speak quietly, but his voice shook and his face was white and drawn.

Always of nervous temperament, it was easily seen that he was now on the verge of collapse.

"Stay here awhile, Penn," said Aunt Judy, looking at him anxiously. "You'll go to pieces if you're over home alone. I'll send Pearl over to tell Rosa you're waiting here for Polly."

"No," he said hesitatingly, "I'd better get along. But, I say, people, we must do something. We can't go to bed with those two girls missing. I think I'll go home and mull over it, and if they don't turn up by midnight, I'm going to notify the police."

THOUSANDS COMING TO BRAINERD LAKE REGION FOR FOURTH

GREATEST VOLUME OF TOURIST TRAFFIC IN HISTORY SEEN HERE

EVERY AVAILABLE ACCOMODATION IN RESORTS AND COTTAGES ALREADY TAKEN

VANGUARD ALREADY HERE, AND HIGHWAY PATROL URGES OBSERVANCE OF ROAD RULES

Every available tourist accommodation in this district will be called into service over the Fourth of July to accommodate the largest number of tourists and holiday vacationists in the history of the Brainerd Lake Region.

Checking resorts today, the Brainerd Dispatch learned that reservations made during the past two weeks have alone assured the complete fill-up of all accommodations.

One resort has assigned its help to tents to increase its number of cabins for the day and week-end. Thousands of dollars from tourists will be poured into the district. The vanguard of the thousands to come for the Fourth passed through the city today. All day tomorrow tourist cars will come to Brainerd, stop for replenishing of supplies and after a short visit here be off to the lake region. Throughout the night they will come, one steady stream of cars.

Only a few cottages of the thousands in the Brainerd lake area were to be unoccupied. Late comers will bid high for these while letters, telegrams and telephone messages continue to pour in to all places for accommodations.

Hundreds of Brainerd people who own cottages near the city have rented their summer homes to tourists and holiday vacationers from the larger cities to accommodate them.

State and county highway departments here announced today that all roads were in excellent condition for travel.

Officers of the Minnesota Highway Patrol warned motorists for strict observance of highway rules for the protection of the heavy streams of traffic on all highways.

Special programs have been arranged by many resorts for the entertainment of their guests, including golf tournaments, boat races, band concerts, field events and dances.

TRACING GUN USED TO SLAY 'JAKE' LINGLE

Los Angeles, July 2.—(UP)—The gun used to murder Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, may be one that was taken from Frankie Foster by a Chicago policeman a year ago, the gangster said here today.

"Yes, maybe my gun was used in the Lingle shooting," Foster told officers. "If it's the same gun I'm thinking of, it was taken from me by a Chicago policeman and never returned."

PULLING BACK THE CURTAIN

OLD FRIENDS
ENJOY REUNION

Meet at M. F. Shannon Home in Daggett Brook Last Sunday

There was quite a reunion of old friends at the M. F. Shannon home in Daggett Brook last Sunday. A bounteous dinner was served and afterwards they all motored to the old cemetery to plan for the improving of the cemetery which has had no care for years. The cemetery is located in St. Mathias township, and many of the people at the reunion have relatives at rest there.

Among those gathered were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Glidden, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Gorton and son Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Nesheim, Mrs. Troxel of Laporte, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Shannon, Claude Shannon, V. Toms and two children of Emily, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. James, Mrs. L. Hilderbrand and daughter Anneth, Mrs. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Lew and two sons, Ray Cook and Ray Cook of Fort Ripley and Mr. Hawkes of Montana.

After the meeting at the cemetery the folks drove around the country to see their old homes as most of people lived in that neighborhood as far back as 50 years ago. It is needless to say that all enjoyed themselves to the utmost as they talked over old times and visited the places once so familiar.

While driving home more old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kinney of Motley and Mr. and Mrs. Will King and part of their family, were met unexpectedly though greatly to the pleasure of all.

DAGGETT BROOK

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Ringering were in Brainerd last Monday.

Fred Hilderbrand is visiting at the home of his son Lester Hilderbrand for a while.

Mrs. Troxel of Laporte has been visiting at the Shannon home lately. She went to the M. D. Gorton home last Sunday to visit for a few days.

Ed. Rahl is working for Enock Swanson.

Mr. and Mrs. Enock Swanson visited friends at Point Lake last Sunday.

Mrs. Carl Nelson was in town last Monday.

Many of the farmers are starting the haying already.

Mr. and Mrs. Shannon entertained a large company of old time friends at dinner at their home last Sunday.

Lonnie Gorton and Dorothy Barrett called on friends in Daggett Brook last Sunday.

BULLET IN HIS LEG
FOR UNSUCCESSFUL
HOLDUP ATTEMPT

Winona, Minn., July 2.—(UP)—Hugo Spetatra, 18, who said he came here from Chicago, was held in jail today as he nursed a bullet wound in the leg received in an unsuccessful hold-up attempt. The boy attempted to rob the filling station of Charles Lake at Homer. Lake refused to obey the fleeing boy, who was struck in the leg. Spetatra was arrested and brought here.

Says Men More Sensitive

Modern women again score in tests made recently by Professor Uginelli, of Florence, Italy, which, he says, prove that the fair sex feel pain about one-tenth less severely, on the average, than do men. Human cheeks and foreheads are the most sensitive parts of the body, regardless of sex, the professor declares.

Mr. Hamilton called on Mr. Bjurkhow Monday afternoon.

"ATTIC MAN" TO INVOKE STATUTE
OF LIMITATIONS

OTTO SANHUBER ENDEAVORS TO FREE SELF FROM ALL GUILT IN CASE

CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER IN THE DEATH OF FRED OESTERREICH

Los Angeles, July 2.—(UP)—Otto Sanhuber, the little "attic man" convicted last night of manslaughter in connection with the death in 1922 of Otto Oesterreich, wealthy manufacturer, moved today to free himself from all guilt in the case.

Through his counsel, Sanhuber announced he would attempt to invoke the statute of limitations, which prohibits prosecution of a defendant more than three years after the alleged offense except for murder and treason.

Sanhuber was tried for first degree murder, but the manslaughter verdict returned by the jury of six men and six women after deliberation of approximately seven hours, would permit an appeal under the limitations law, his attorneys said.

Oesterreich's shooting in 1922 was denied on the witness stand by Sanhuber, although a confession he allegedly made to the grand jury was read to the jury. The 100-pound defendant repudiated the confession, asserting he told the story to shield Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, widow of the manufacturer.

Sanhuber, telling of his love for Mrs. Oesterreich, said he hid in the garrets of her homes for several years in order to be near her. She was indicted with Sanhuber on the murder charge and will be tried soon.

Busted

Little Richard, aged four, had been watching the sun set with great interest. When the sun had sunk halfway below the horizon he turned to his mother and said: "Oh, look, mother, the sun is busted."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE

JUST before the rehearsal of her marriage to Rodney Sayre, Emily Duane leaves her exclusive Hilldale Park home to visit the hospital. She does not return and Rod and the guests become concerned. They are more perplexed when Jim Pennington, husband of Emily's best friend, Pauline, informs them that his wife, with whom he left the rehearsal about the same time as Emily, has also disappeared. Upon phoning the hospital, it is learned Emily never reached there. It is believed the two young women are together.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X.

ROD had seen the black maid hovering about in the hall, and he wanted to talk to someone who understood Emily.

"Tell me all you know of Miss Emily's talk on the telephone," "Oh, Mistah Sayre, sub, she was dat glad to hear about Miss Kitty's l'il baby! She jes' said, 'Can I see dat child?' and dey said yes, and she jumped up from de tellyphone quicker's scat, and presoomed to run right erlong. She jes' stopped to hug me—she alwus does that when she's tickled to deff—telling you, she flied in here to tell you, sub, dat she was agwine and den she went."

"You saw her go? Think now, Pearl, did you?"

"Well," the girl hesitated and her big eyes rolled about till the whites were prominently exposed, "now, I cyaht jes' say's I did see her go. But you did, didn't yo' Mistah Sayre, sub?"

Pearl was a sympathetic listener, and she caught a note in Rodney's voice that told her he was thinking deeply over the matter, though he was not saying much.

"Why, no, Pearl, I didn't see her go. I saw her leave this room, but she disappeared round the palms in the hall. I thought you might have seen her go out of the door."

"No, sub, I didn't. I went back to de kitchen fer a minute, and when I come in again she was gone."

"Why, Rodney, you don't think she didn't leave the house, do you?" and Nell grasped his hand in her earnestness.

"I don't think anything, Nell," he quietly drew his hand away, "but the fact remains we don't know where Emily is. If she is safe and sound, anywhere, up to any mischief or foolishness, that's all right. But if there's anything wrong—"

"That's what I want to say, dear Mr. Sayre," Garner put in, "if there is anything wrong, any tragedy in our midst, count on me to help and comfort you."

Rod wanted to say that he would gladly count him out on those two counts, but he couldn't be rude to a clergyman, so he merely bowed his appreciation of the offer, and hoped the man would go.

Aunt Judy threw herself into the breach.

"All right, Mr. Garner," she said, briskly. "We'll most certainly send for you if you can be of help or service. Now you run along home, for your dinner will be waiting. Goodness knows when we'll get ours!"

She struck the right note, for the man had not realized how late it was getting, and there was certainly no hope of dinner at Knollwood very soon.

With elaborate protestations of condolence and promises of future encouragement, he at last went away.

"Isn't he awful!" whispered Nell, as his footsteps grew fainter in the distance. "If he hadn't gone when he did, I'd have ushered him out myself. I could see how he annoyed you, Roddy, dear."

"Oh, no, he didn't. He meant well enough. Now, Nell, let me alone a minute, I want to think."

"Yes, indeed. I'll do just that, and I'll sit right near by, and I won't let anybody speak to you."

She fussed about, putting another pillow behind him and setting a fresh ash tray on the table at his side.

Aunt Judy's black eyes winked at Rod over Nell's solicitous head, and he gave the old lady an answering smile.

The three were there alone, save for Pearl, who sat in the hall waiting the return of her young mistress.

"Emily's all right," Aunt Judy said complacently. "If you'd been through this, Rod, as often as I have, you wouldn't get stirred up."

"She frequently disappears, then?" and Sayre tried to speak lightly.

"Oh, yes. And she has stayed away for days at a time, but always turned up safe and sound."

"But this time it is a little different," Nell suggested.

Rodney wanted to shake her, but she had voiced the thought in his own mind.

"Yes," he had to agree, "this time it is different. Other times, she'd have gone off with some friends, I suppose."

"Yes," Aunt Judy said. "Why one night she went out at ten o'clock, and I didn't see her for a week."

"Where was she?"

"Oh, she met some people she knew, in a car, and they picked her up and took her along with them to Tuxedo. She sent back the next day for clothes and things and she had a beautiful visit."

"How'd she come to go out alone as late as ten o'clock?" asked Nell.

"Oh, she only went for a little walk around the place. She happened to be alone that evening, so she was mooning about, and the crowd in the car picked her up. She loves a crazy performance like that. Oh, she was dressed well enough—had on a little flowered chiffon that—"

"What's she got on tonight?" said Nell, suddenly. "Oh, a dark blue crepe, I remember. She expected to dress for dinner, after the rehearsal."

"Didn't she have on her diamond necklace?" Aunt Judy said.

"Why, yes, I think so," and Nell's eyes opened wide. "Didn't she, Roddy?"

"Yes," he said, wishing she wouldn't call him that.

"Well, then, I'm worried," Nell declared. "If Emily went over to the hospital alone, with that glittering necklace on, anything might have happened!"

"Do hush, Nell!" said Sayre, goaded beyond endurance. "Don't frighten Aunt Judy. Nothing ever happens up here."

"Oh, doesn't it?" and Nell grew excited. "I suppose Mrs. Grant didn't have her car held up and her jewels taken, not so long ago! And I suppose there weren't burglars in the Caldwell house last week! Rodney, did you see her start off alone with that diamond necklace on and never say a word?"

"I wanted her to let me go with her, but she wouldn't," groaned the wretched man, who hadn't before thought of robbery or, indeed, of anything but some whimsical prank of Emily's.

"How would she go to the hospital?" said Nell, who was thinking seriously now.

"She said she was going cross-lots," Rodney informed her. "I don't know just where the hospital is—"

"Well, I do," and Nell shook her head. "And to go to it cross-lots is to go along the loneliest and darkest road in all Hilldale Park."

"But it wasn't dark, then," Rod-

ney said. "It was only just beginning to grow dusk."

"Well, it's dark enough now. And anyway, Rod, no matter what she said, you ought not to have let her go alone."

"Now, look here," and Sayre sat up straighter, "cut out that sort of talk. You know as well as I do that Emily is the apple of my eye, the core of my heart."

"You go down to our back entrance," Aunt Judy told him, "and then you go along across the bridge over the big ravine, by the Mill house, then over the little ravine near the Pennington house, and then it's just a short cut through the wood to the hospital."

"Through the wood?" Rod echoed, the phrase bringing up dark and gloomy pictures.

"Yes, but just a little wood," Aunt Judy averred. "It isn't dark there, not in the daytime—I've never been there at night."

"I wonder if the search party will go to that wood," said Nell going over to sit by Rod's side again.

"Of course," he returned, but he shuddered as one who was having a bad dream.

The situation seemed to grow more tense.

Rodney sat motionless on the sofa, declining further cigarettes that Nell offered.

Aunt Judy also relapsed into silence, and though Nell tried to keep up a run of gay chatter, it sounded hollow and inane when nobody answered or even heeded it.

And then, about eight o'clock the search party returned.

"The girls here?" asked Jim Pennington, trying to speak lightly.

HISTORY'S MYSTERIES

Shedding Light on the Still Puzzling
Mysteries of the Past

The Vanished Editor

BORN of a family remarkable for its learning—his father being professor of languages in a number of colleges and his mother an author of more than ordinary note—it was not strange that Samuel Stillman Conant should choose literature as his life work and that he should, shortly after his return from Heidelberg, have been appointed editor of Harper's Weekly.

As the years passed, Conant's future appeared to grow more and more bright. Married to a woman who was congenial in the extreme, with a son who was rapidly approaching manhood and the position of editor of one of the leading periodicals in the country, no cloud seemed to threaten the financial, business, or marital sky so far as the Conants were concerned. But, suddenly, with the swiftness of the proverbial bolt from the blue, came a strange occurrence which forty-five years have failed to explain.

On the evening of Thursday, January 15, 1885, Mr. Conant visited the Authors' club in New York, chatted with a number of persons present and appeared to be in the best of health and spirits. To several of them he mentioned the fact that he intended to spend the week-end in Albany, N. Y., with an editor whom he desired to see and he was going to take his son with him. The following morning, Friday, he arose as usual, told his son to be ready to leave late that afternoon, and went down to his office, where he superintended the final makeup of the next week's issue. Then, with a cheery "Good-night—I'll see you Monday afternoon," Conant stepped out of the front door of the office and vanished!

As the hours passed and no word was received from him at home, Mrs. Conant began to be alarmed, particularly since her husband had always been careful to advise her of any alteration in his plans. But even the police were unable to discover anything until the following Wednesday, when a man entered a pawnshop at Coney Island, and borrowed $5 on a watch which young Conant later identified as belonging to his father, and also called attention to the fact that the description of the man who had pawned the jewelry tallied very closely with that of the missing editor himself. The receipt for the loan was signed with the name "T. P. Stevens"—a circumstance which was considered of extreme importance, since "T. P." were the initials of Conant's son and "Stevens" was Mrs. Conant's maiden name.

The only information obtainable, however, was that the man who had pawned the watch had spent the previous night upon the beach at Coney Island and had made friends with a storekeeper nearby, who had invited him to supper on the following evening. After the meal was over the man had chatted for about an hour and then, with the statement that he was Samuel Stillman Conant, editor of Harper's Weekly and that he had to catch the seven o'clock train for Brooklyn, he had vanished again into the night.

This, of course, changed the entire working plan of the police who, up to this time, had been proceeding along the theory that Conant had been murdered. But, even with the clues at hand, they were unable to find a further trace of the missing editor.

About a week later, one of Conant's friends, a man who had known him for years and who was certain of his identification, reported that he had seen the editor coming out of a hotel in Fulton street, Brooklyn, and that, when he had attempted to detain him, the other had broken away with the curt exclamation:

"Don't you see I'm in a hurry? Besides, the whole thing is nobody's business!"

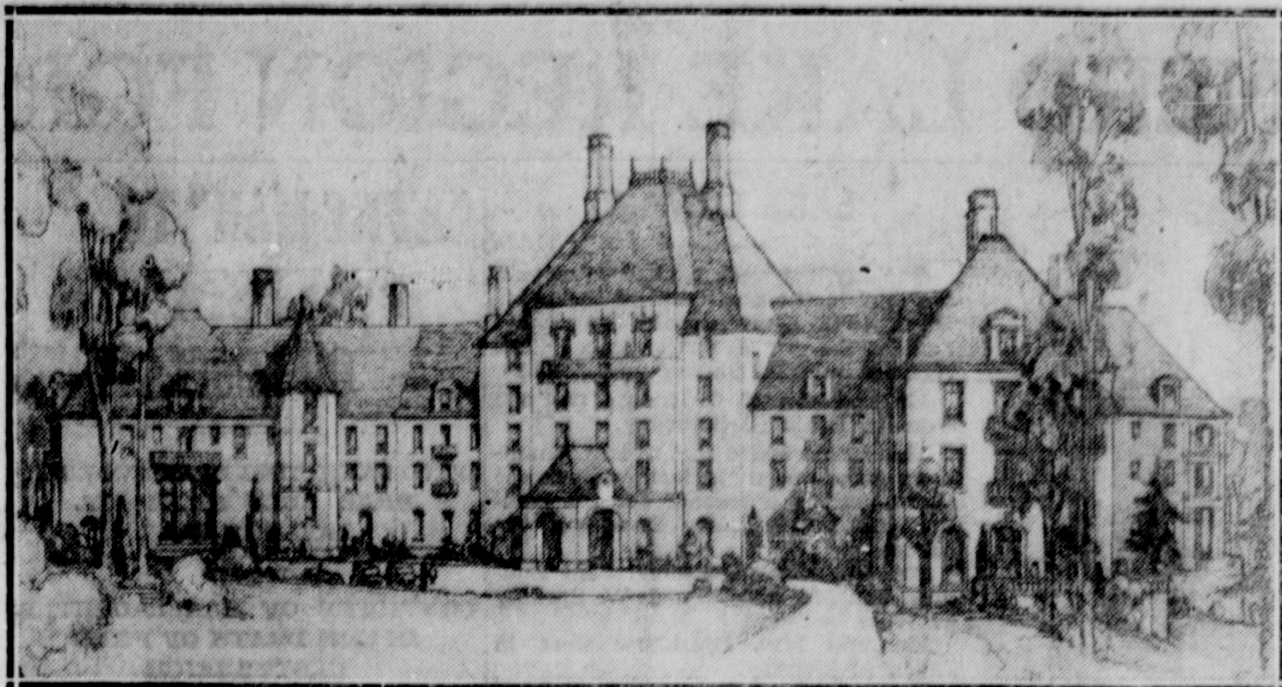

Private detectives were immediately turned loose on this new clue but they, like the police, succeeded in discovering nothing save that a man who answered to Conant's description had spent the previous night or two at a hotel in Long Island city—leaving there only an hour before the detectives arrived. That was the last that was ever heard of Conant, though wild reports that he had been located continued to come in from various parts of the country for years afterwards. Samuel Stillman Conant, however, had disappeared—completely and entirely—and his name occupies a prominent place on the "Book of the Missing," alongside those of Dorothy Arnold, Charley Ross, Dorsey Foulitz and other whose whereabouts are still a mystery.

Varied "Horse Talk"

I have received enough letters on "horse language" to fill these columns and have plenty to spare. "Gee" and "Haw" I am told are in use in the United States and Canada, while in North Wales "Mothar" is employed instead of "Haw" or "Hauve."

An Essex reader says that Norfolk drivers still use the order "halt" for "left" or "cum harley" with "woosh" or "worst" for "right," and another correspondent, who writes on the borders of Norfolk and Suffolk, tells me that horsemen call "wheesh" when the team is to turn to the right and "coopear" or "coopey" to the left.—London Morning Post.

Christian Science Sanatorium in California

SAN FRANCISCO: Under articles of incorporation already filed with the Secretary of State of California, permanent trustees took over on March 26 the ownership of the property and buildings which are to accommodate the Christian Science Benevolent Association for Pacific Coast. The Association, which will open its doors to guests about the middle of May, was established in accordance with Section 8 of Article I of the Manual of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

The Benevolent Association for Pacific Coast is the third large charitable institution established by The Mother Church, totaling an investment of over $4,000,000. The Christian Science Benevolent Association, located in Chestnut Hill, Mass., was chartered in 1916, and The Christian Science Pleasant View Home, located in Concord, N. H., in 1925. While all three of these corporations are independent from a legal point of view they are under the control and supervision of The Christian Science Board of Directors.

The California property, known as Arden Wood, is a thickly timbered, 16 acre, piece of rolling land situated on the edge of San Francisco, its general location being between Twin Peaks and the Ocean. The Sanatorium is sheltered from the prevailing winds by the hill which forms the principal topographical feature of the property. No public roads or ways cross it, but paths will be arranged extending from the Sanatorium through the woods, making a feature of a small ravine which runs along the east boundary.

The Sanatorium, designed by Henry H. Guttersen, Architect, is of steel and reinforced concrete done in a modernized Breton style, with high central pavilion, tall classic

French windows and steep-sloping, red tiled roof. It will contain accommodations for 120 guests and associates.

Within the last few weeks a substantial piece of property jutting into the principal tract, formerly held by the city of San Francisco for school purposes, has been purchased to secure additional quiet and freedom from outside disturbances.

The Board of Trustees of the San Francisco institution will be in constant touch with The Christian Science Board of Directors as are the Boards of the two New England institutions.

The three Trustees of the new corporation are Mrs. Gertrude M. Glass, George D. Greenwood, and Marvin R. Higgins. Wilson D. Clark has been appointed Manager-Treasurer. All of these officers have been actively interested in Christian Science work for many years.

Jewels in Industry

Rubies, sapphires, garnets and diamonds are the jewels used chiefly in watch bearings. They are also used together with agates and other jewels, in electrical and surveyors' instruments, meters, compasses, clocks, phonographs and various other precision instruments. Such precious stones used for technical purposes would include all of the above, as distinguished from their use merely for ornament or jewelry.

Try 'Em on Your Friends

The University of California selects these words as tripping most spellers: separate, lose, ninety, privilege, villain, chautauqua, accommodate, all fight, repetition and ecstasy.

Cider Helped Out

During the month of November, 1929, the public fountains of the town of Santa de Lengro, Spain, were contaminated with typhoid germs, and instead of water the 6,000 citizens drank apple cider. The total consumption of cider for that period was 209,000 liters.

HISTORY'S MYSTERIES

Mysterious Middles That Still Puzzle Authorities Here and Abroad

The Vanished Editor

BORN of a family remarkable for its learning—his father being professor of languages in a number of colleges and his mother an author of more than ordinary note—it was not strange that Samuel Stillman Conant should choose literature as his life work and that he should, shortly after his return from Heidelberg, have been appointed editor of Harper's Weekly.

As the years passed, Conant's future appeared to grow more and more bright. Married to a woman who was congenial in the extreme, with a son who was rapidly approaching manhood and the position of editor of one of the leading periodicals in the country, no cloud seemed to threaten the financial, business, or marital sky so far as the Conants were concerned. But, suddenly, with the swiftness of the proverbial bolt from the blue, came a strange occurrence which forty-five years have failed to explain.

On the evening of Thursday, January 15, 1885, Mr. Conant visited the Authors' club in New York, chatted with a number of persons present and appeared to be in the best of health and spirits. To several of them he mentioned the fact that he intended to spend the week-end in Albany, N. Y., with an editor whom he desired to see and he was going to take his son with him. The following morning, Friday, he arose as usual, told his son to be ready to leave late that afternoon, and went down to his office, where he superintended the final makeup of the next week's issue. Then, with a cheery "Good-night—I'll see you Monday afternoon," Conant stepped out of the front door of the office—and vanished!

As the hours passed and no word was received from him at home, Mrs. Conant began to be alarmed, particularly since her husband had always been careful to advise her of any alteration in his plans. But even the police were unable to discover anything until the following Wednesday, when a man entered a pawnshop at Coney Island, and borrowed $5 on a watch which young Conant later identified as belonging to his father, and also called attention to the fact that the description of the man who had pawned the jewelry tallied very closely with that of the missing editor himself. The receipt for the loan was signed with the name "T. P. Stevens"—a circumstance which was considered of extreme importance, since "T. P." were the initials of Conant's son and "Stevens" was Mrs. Conant's maiden name.

The only information obtainable, however, was that the man who had pawned the watch had spent the previous night upon the beach at Coney Island and had made friends with a storekeeper nearby, who had invited him to supper on the following evening. After the meal was over the man had chatted for about an hour and then, with the statement that he was Samuel Stillman Conant, editor of Harper's Weekly and that he had to catch the seven o'clock train for Brooklyn, he had vanished again into the night.

This, of course, changed the entire working plan of the police who, up to this time, had been proceeding along the theory that Conant had been murdered. But, even with the clues at hand, they were unable to find a further trace of the missing editor.

About a week later, one of Conant's friends, a man who had known him for years and who was certain of his identification, reported that he had seen the editor coming out of a hotel in Fulton street, Brooklyn, and that, when he had attempted to detain him, the other had broken away with the curt exclamation:

"Don't you see I'm in a hurry? Besides, the whole thing is nobody's business!"

Private detectives were immediately turned loose on this new clue but they, like the police, succeeded in discovering nothing save that a man who answered to Conant's description had spent the previous night or two at a hotel in Long Island city—leaving there only an hour before the detectives arrived. That was the last that was ever heard of Conant, though wild reports that he had been located continued to come in from various parts of the country for years afterwards. Samuel Stillman Conant, however, had disappeared—completely and entirely—and his name occupies a prominent place on the "Book of the Missing," alongside those of Dorothy Arnold, Charley Ross, Dorsey Foulz and other whose whereabouts are still a mystery.

Varied "Horse Talk"

I have received enough letters on "horse language" to fill these columns and have plenty to spare. "Gee" and "Haw" I am told are in use in the United States and Canada, while in North Wales "Mothar" is employed instead of "Haw" or "Hauve."

An Essex reader says that Norfolk drivers still use the order "halt" for "left" or "cum harley" with "woosh" or "worst" for "right," and another correspondent, who writes on the borders of Norfolk and Suffolk, tells me that horsemen call "wheesh" when the team is to turn to the right and "coopear" or "coopey" to the left.—London Morning Post.

Christian Science Sanatorium in California

SAN FRANCISCO: Under articles of incorporation already filed with the Secretary of State of California, permanent trustees took over on March 26 the ownership of the property and buildings which are to accommodate the Christian Science Benevolent Association for Pacific Coast. The Association, which will open its doors to guests about the middle of May, was established in accordance with Section 8 of Article I of the Manual of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

The Benevolent Association for Pacific Coast is the third large charitable institution established by The Mother Church, totaling an investment of over $4,000,000. The Christian Science Benevolent Association, located in Chestnut Hill, Mass., was chartered in 1916, and The Christian Science Pleasant View Home, located in Concord, N. H., in 1925. While all three of these corporations are independent from a legal point of view they are under the control and supervision of The Christian Science Board of Directors.

The California property, known as Arden Wood, is a thickly timbered, 16 acre, piece of rolling land situated on the edge of San Francisco, its general location being between Twin Peaks and the Ocean. The Sanatorium is sheltered from the prevailing winds by the hill which forms the principal topographical feature of the property. No public roads or ways cross it, but paths will be arranged extending from the Sanatorium through the woods, making a feature of a small ravine which runs along the east boundary.

The Sanatorium, designed by Henry H. Guttersen, Architect, is of steel and reinforced concrete done in a modernized Breton style, with high central pavilion, tall classic

French windows and steep-sloping, red tiled roof. It will contain accommodations for 120 guests and associates.

Within the last few weeks a substantial piece of property jutting into the principal tract, formerly held by the city of San Francisco for school purposes, has been purchased to secure additional quiet and freedom from outside disturbances.

The Board of Trustees of the San Francisco institution will be in constant touch with The Christian Science Board of Directors as are the Boards of the two New England institutions.

The three Trustees of the new corporation are Mrs. Gertrude M. Glass, George D. Greenwood, and Marvin R. Higgins. Wilson D. Clark has been appointed Manager-Treasurer. All of these officers have been actively interested in Christian Science work for many years.

Jewels in Industry

Rubies, sapphires, garnets and diamonds are the jewels used chiefly in watch bearings. They are also used together with agates and other jewels, in electrical and surveyors' instruments, meters, compasses, clocks, phonographs and various other precision instruments. Such precious stones used for technical purposes would include all of the above, as distinguished from their use merely for ornament or jewelry.

Try 'Em on Your Friends

The University of California selects these words as tripping most spellers: separate, lose, ninety, privilege, villain, chautauqua, accommodate, all right, repetition and ecstasy.

Cider Helped Out

During the month of November, 1929, the public fountains of the town of Sama de Langreo, Spain, were contaminated with typhoid germs, and instead of water the 6,000 citizens drank apple cider. The total consumption of cider for that period was 209,000 liters.

Shadow of the South Pole

"HOME LIFE" in Antarctica may sound somewhat like a paradox, yet in that phrase lies the explanation of the high morale of the 42 members of the expedition who spent a year in Little America.

A South Polar seamstress busy at a difficult dress-making problem.

The highest praise that could be given Admiral Byrd's qualities as a good provider and as a group psychologist lies in the fact that if the relief ship had not arrived as scheduled, the men would have been able and willing to face another year in the Antarctic without real discomfort and without grumbling about the circumstances which kept them from their homes and normal occupations.

The opinion of the two official photographers is especially valuable, since they, nearly as much as the party's leader, had to know what was going on at the base every hour of every day. One of these, Willard VanderVeer, is authority for the statement that "the physical condition and morale of the men could not possibly have been better even during the six months of night. If our ship had not come, we could have spent twice the time in Little America that we did. Not one of the 42 men was severely frostbitten, and all enjoyed exceptionally good health even in view of the unusual conditions. I gained weight, even though every day was an active one for me, and many others did also."

VanderVeer attributed the health record to the fact that the men had a balanced ration, with plenty of fresh meat to ward off scurvy, the curse of many a maritime and exploratory undertaking.

"All our vegetables were dehydrated and therefore useless to fight scurvy," he said upon his arrival in New York, "but our hunters, which were eliminated from the larder before the exile began because of their bulk. Flavored gelatin, because of the economy of weight and cost which it permitted, and because the men proved earlier on the trip that they were genuinely fond of it, was the stand-by of the after-meal sweets.

Two large packages of flavored gelatin were sufficient to feed the entire group. Because of the restriction of culinary supplies, the dessert was made in a bucket. At first, it was left outside to solidify in the cold, but later, it was found that the right consistency could be attained by leaving it for a short time in the communication tunnel between the two dwelling houses.

Eskimo pie, of unparalleled authenticity, was an occasional alternative to flavored gelatin as dessert. A member of the party who had formerly been an ice cream maker, used to connect the confection, putting large blocks of sweetened condensed milk in tin cans, exposing them outside the huts a few minutes and bringing them in and coating the frozen custard with thick chocolate. The whole job took far less time than it does in the most modern ice cream manufactory, and the coldness was such as no Eskimo had ever been able to duplicate on his menu.

The South Pole, according to VanderVeer, is colder not only in temperature but in every aspect. He should know, because he was a member of Admiral Byrd's first polar expedition in 1929.

Wandering Back

by A. J. Dunlap.

It was miles from our place to a neighbor;
There were days when we saw none at all—
For the horses were tired in the evening
And no telephone hung on the wall.
And the days flowed along like a river,
With a peace in their quiet and charm
That alone could be found in the country,
In the days of the pioneer farm.

When I tire of this up-to-date frenzy
With its clashing and clamorous bore;
When I'm weary of pushing and rushing,
And of life with its windows aglare;
Then I quietly wander in fancy
Back again to the farm where I knew
The deep peace of the sunrise and sunset,
And the cornfields that glittered with dew.

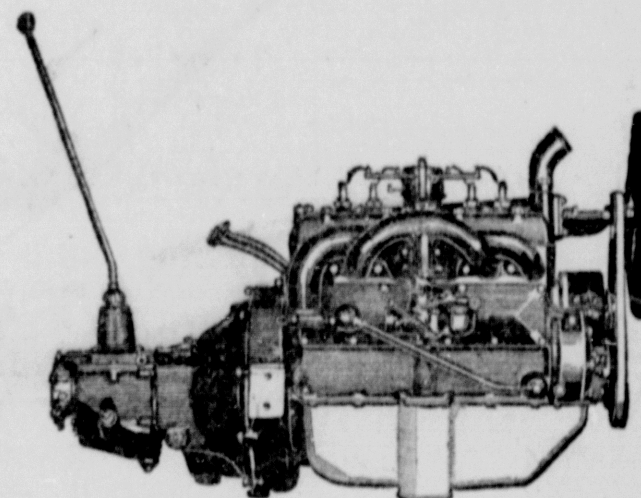

THE OLD FARM SERIES

THE GOOD PERFORMANCE of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance.

Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

Rome's Wide Sway

Among the nations of the present day which were encompassed within the boundaries of the Roman empire are Great Britain, Spain, Portugal, France, Germany, Italy, Austria, Albania, Switzerland, Egypt and the Balkan states.

"Kulaks"

In Soviet Russia a kulak family is one whose "means of production" is valued at $700 or more. In 1928 any farmer who raised $250 worth of foodstuffs or more, after deducting $10 a head for family consumption, was considered a kulak. Such farmers are taxed until their wealth is reduced to the common level.

Gas in Warfare

Many efforts have been made in the past to use various gases—chiefly sulphur dioxide—in warfare. As early as 431 B. C. the Spartans, in besieging the cities of Belium and Platea, burned pitch and sulphur under the walls of these cities in order to break down their defense by suffocation of the troops of the cities.

Old Friends Best

Forsake not an old friend; for the new is not comparable to him; a new friend is as new wine; when it is old, thou shalt drink it with pleasure.—Ecclesiasticus.

Think It Over

THE NEW TEXACO MOTOR OIL LONGER-LASTING, "CRACK-PROOF"

THE Texas Company again demonstrates its leadership in the petroleum field with the introduction of a vastly superior, new product—a motor oil that lasts longer—that is crack-proof—a motor oil that meets exactly every requirement of the high speed automobile engine of today! This new oil revolutionizes lubrication values as completely as the new and better Texaco Gasoline, the original "dry" gas, revolutionized motor fuels in the Spring of 1926.

An Oil Without Precedent

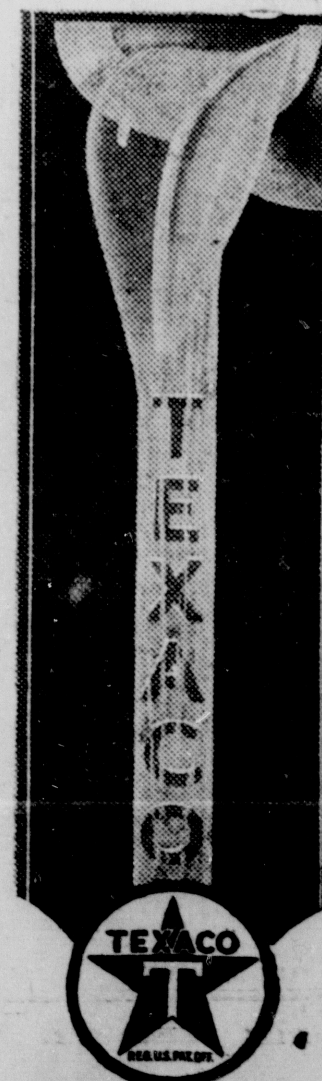

There have been oils that gave remarkable mileage. There have been oils that flowed freely at zero. There have been oils that kept your engine completely free of wax and carbon troubles. But—never until now have all these advantages been combined in any one single lubricant. That motor oil is ready for you today. It is the new Texaco—longer-lasting and crack-proof. Road tests—laboratory tests have proved it.

Available in all our 48 States

Fill your crankcase with this new crack-proof motor oil today. It will more than pay you, not only in greater value for your lubrication dollar but for your car dollar as well. It is manufactured in five grades: C, D, E, F, and G, corresponding in body to Society of Automotive Engineers (S. A. E.) viscosity ratings. 30¢ a quart everywhere (35¢ for grade G).

THE TEXAS COMPANY
Refiners of a complete line of Texaco Petroleum Products including Gasoline, Motor Oil, Industrial Lubricants, Railroad and Marine Lubricants, Farm Lubricants, Road Asphalts and Asphalt Roofing.

JUDGES TAKE UP MOONEY AND BILLINGS CASES

7 JUDGES OF CALIFORNIA STATE
SUPREME COURT DELIBER-
ATE IN MATTER

PRISONERS SERVING SENTENCE
FOR ALLEGED PREPAREDNESS
DAY BOMBING OF 1916

San Francisco, July 2.—(U.P.)—Seven judges of the California supreme court deliberated today on the case of Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings who are serving life sentences for conviction in the Preparedness Day bombing of 1916.

Meanwhile letters and wires both pleading for and denouncing pardons for the two men were hurried toward Governor C. C. Young.

It was expected that the judges would vote on the report sometime today although the contents of the report will not be made public until the governor announces whether he will pardon the two men.

Governor Young was to arrive in Los Angeles today and there awaits the court's decision.

The decision of the court will deal with the case of Billings. It is attempting to decide whether Billings should receive a pardon. It has been learned by the United Press that the governor will act on the court's decision and accord Mooney the same treatment as Billings.
